CURLEY FLAYS M'CURDY AT RALLY; DEFIES KLAN

Deducting a large sedgement from his lunch hour, Mayor Curley at the Glynn noon rally in Pemberton square today, verbally flayed Ireston H. McCurdy for failing to meet him in a Klan debate, and then turned sarcastic attention to Mayoralty candidates opposing Glynn.

McCurdy challenged the Mayor to debate in Symphony Hall, but Curley, declining, invited McCurdy to quarrel it out in the fresh air of Pemberton square.

Half way through Curley's harangue, a note arrived from McCurdy declining to change the place of meeting and giving as a reason his disinclination to become the

'DUTCH' ANDERSON AND OFFICER DIE IN DUEL

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The thug slain here Saturday night after he had shot and fatally wounded Charles Hammond, city detective, was positively identified today as "Dutch" Anderson, noted thug and pal of Gerald Chapman.

The identification was made today by fingerprints of the slain bandit and those of Anderson. Secret service operatives, who arrived here today, also aided in the identification.

"There is no question but that it is Anderson," said Peter Hansen, chief of police. "The finger prints tell the story, while the Bertillon measurements also show it to be Anderson."

Police took the prints of the bandit's fingers as he was dying Saturday night at the station. Finger prints of Anderson arrived today and Lieutenant Roy Ferris of the identification bureau at once declared they were the same.

Anderson went to his death fight-

EXTRA DIVIDEND TALK BOOSTS MOTOR STOCKS

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Wild fluctuations in Hudson Motor shares, which soared 23¼ to a record high at 139½, and then had a sharp break of 12½ points, threw the stock market into a frenzy in the final minutes of trading today.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Widespread speculation for the advance, apparently inspired by reports of broadening trade activities, abundant credit facilities, prospects of lower taxes and rumors of increased and extra dividends carried two score issues to new high levels for the year in today's active stock market.

NOTABLES FACING QUIZ IN AVIATION TRIAL

MITCHELL PLANS TO QUESTION WILBUR ON NAVAL AIR MISHAPS

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Colonel William Mitchell, on trial by court-martial as a result of his criticism of the conduct of the government's air services, today asked the court to summon Secretaries Davis of the War Department and Wilbur of the Navy Department as witnesses.

Several other high officials of the two departments, several members of Congress and more than sixty army and navy officers also were named by the defence in a list of probably seventy-five in all.

The name of President Coolidge did not appear on the list. The colonel and his counsel, after assessing the legal obstacles that would stand in the way of a subpoena for the President, had made up their minds not to try to summon him.

Late today the prosecution rested its case against the Colonel.

It was apparent from the colonel's action in seeking to bring Cabinet officials and members of Congress into the trial that he hoped to thrash out in court the whole range of issues involved in the air controversy, and thus present a justification for

CHAPMAN'S PAL SHOT TO DEATH IN MICHIGAN

ing. So did Detective Hammond who although fatally wounded wrested the revolver from the thug's hand in an alley in the rear of the police station and then killed Anderson with the latter's own weapon.

The arrest was made after Anderson, who had $2,700 in counterfeit $20 bills on his person, had passed one for a box of candy at the Colonial Cafe. Suspicious of the bill, the cashier sent her brother, Garcia Engalis to the bank across the street. The bill was declared a counterfeit.

Hammond was detailed by Chief Hansen to pick his man up. Hammond and Engalis found him mixing with the crowd on Western avenue, the main business street, and then Engalis pointed him out.

"I am not sure he is the man who passed the bill but he was in the store," said Engalis.

Hammond told Anderson to accompany him to the station. He walked along until he was nearing the City Hall, where the police station is located. Then he slipped a revolver from his pocket and fired. The first shot went wild and struck a store window across the street. The second bullet hit another store window.

OFFICER DARES GUNFIRE.

Anderson ran into an alley at the rear of City Hall. Hammond followed in the face of the gunfire, and as he grabbed Anderson the bandit turned and fired at close range. The bullet went through Hammond's lung and liver.

Hammond wrested the revolver from Anderson and fired a shot into his body, severing the main artery from the heart. Hammond, wounded, sagged against the wall as Patrolman George Thompson, attracted by the shots, ran to him.

"Get him! He got me," said Hammond.

Thompson fired a shot into Anderson's body as he tried to rise, but it was the bullet fired by Hammond from the notorious criminal's own gun that killed him.

Anderson had been in the counterfeit game for several weeks apparently and had flooded Michigan cities with the counterfeit $20 bills, according to Secret Service operatives.

Anderson was wanted at Muncie, Ind., in connection with the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hanes, who were slain last August. They were killed presumably because of Hanes's testimony given at the trial of Gerald Chapman, pal of Anderson, on the charge of killing a New Britain, Ct., policeman.

HAD VICIOUS RECORD.

Like that of Gerald Chapman, the origin and early existence of "Dutch" Anderson, who was slain in Muskegon, Mich., are decidedly in a fog, but he is believed to have been brought to America when a boy.

Of college man bearing, Anderson was the latter-day type of lawbreaker. Characterized by postoffice inspectors as "a murderer, safeblower, all-round bandit, mockernut forger, bank burglar and general thief," Anderson was regarded as the brains of the gang that had Gerald Chapman as protege and member.

Leader in the $2,000,000 New York mail robbery, this feat by Anderson was nevertheless eclipsed in the spectacular when he tunnelled fifty feet underground from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta and escaped.

Anderson in Hartford, Plotting Chapman's Escape

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 2 (A.P.)—George "Dutch" Anderson was in Hartford during the trial of his pal, Gerald Chapman, in the last few days of March and the first few days of April, it was learned today following the news of Anderson's death in Michigan.

It was stated today that a certain person here during the trial saw Anderson and positively identified him as the man Chapman had previously helped escape from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta. The police were notified at once but were unable to trace him.

Other information divulged by the authorities today revealed that during the trial a certain number of fast automobiles were kept in readiness at a few specified points in and about Hartford for Chapman's use in the event of his escape, which not only Anderson, but other underworld pals were working for.

his charges, that the air services had been administered with criminal and almost treasonable negligence. Whether the court will admit that procedure is questionable.

The army and navy officers for whom subpoenas were requested by the defense, included not only those in direct charge of the two air services, but those who have general staff supervision over the army and navy organizations as a whole.

In addition various aircraft experts and other civilians were on the list submitted by the colonel's counsel. They included Donald MacMillan, the Arctic explorer; Grover Loening, the aircraft manufacturer; Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, widow of the commander of the Shenandoah; Rene Lavalle of Chicago and Andre Hedon, one of the designers of the Shenandoah.

The defence also requested that Secretary Jardine of the Agriculture Department; Everett Sanders, secretary to President Coolidge, and Dwight Morrow, head of the President's special air board, be called.

Other witnesses asked to be called were James T. Williams, Jr., editor of the Boston Evening American; Major Frank Knox of the Officers' Reserve Corps, editor of the Leader, Manchester, N. H.

Colonel Mitchell's counsel told the court that in asking a subpoena for Secretary Sanders they would seek "copies of all correspondence exchanged between the President and all persons relative to the necessity and reasons for the formation of the President's air board, headed by Dwight Morrow, as contained in the files of the White House executive offices."

Secretary Wilbur is wanted, it was stated, in order to show just what weather reports were given the Shenandoah on her last flight; what correspondence passed between Commander Lansdowne and the Navy Department regarding the flight; what arrangements were made for the attempted flight of the PN9 No. 1 to Hawaii, and a long list of other things having to do with the conduct of aviation.

WANTS ARMY REPORTS.

Secretary Davis would be asked to produce a great volume of War Department documents bearing on aviation and anti-aircraft activities of the past several years, and including "copies of all reports made since September 8, 1925, by the commanding general or commanding officers, or a member of his command, of each and every corps area or district in the United States and foreign possessions, showing the state of good order and military discipline in his command."

The court proceeded with the actual opening of the trial without indicating whether it would summon those named on Colonel Mitchell's list of witnesses.

Another motion by Mitchell's counsel to dismiss the charges on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction was quickly rejected. Then the prosecution called to the stand as its first witness A. W. Yeager, reporter for the San Antonio (Texas) Light, to whom Colonel Mitchell gave a copy of his San Antonio statement containing the accusations that led to his court-martial.

REID OVERRULED.

After a long argument between counsel, the court accepted in evidence the prosecution's copy of the September 5 statement excluding all pencilled or other marks not made by Colonel Mitchell.

Another wrangle followed efforts of the prosecution to put a newspaper copy of the September 9 statement in evidence. It ended with the court overruling objections by Reid, and accepting the printed exhibit offered by Yeager.

The witness then was excused, Colonel Mitchell's counsel reserving cross-examination until later.

GENERAL HUGS ON STAND.

Again the defence reserved cross-examination and the prosecution called Lieutenant George L. Hicks, adjutant-general of the Eighth Corps Area at San Antonio. He testified that he had submitted newspaper copies of the Mitchell statements to Colonel Mitchell in San Antonio and had obtained from him, in the form of official army correspondence, the admission that he had prepared them for publication.

Luis Felipe Rechnos, reporter for La Prensa, another San Antonio newspaper, testified that he received a copy of the September 5 statement from Colonel Mitchell.

Mr. Yeager said the counsel gave him the statement on the morning of September 6. A copy of it presented by the witness, however, was objected to by Representative Reid of Illinois, Mitchell's attorney.

COOLIDGE BEGINS N. E. COAL PROBE

HUB WOMEN TO HEAR COAL WAR DEBATE

Mrs. Mary Gordon Thompson, president of Women's Trade Union League, before which organization a debate of the coal controversy will be held November 12. Mrs. Thompson is shown here with her daughter.

HAMMOND IN COAL WARNING

N. E. Governors' Fuel Committee Head Declares Profiteers Will Be Prosecuted

A stern warning to the coal trade against profiteering in low volatile bituminous fuel was issued today by John Hays Hammond, chairman of the New England Governors' Fuel Committee.

"No justification exists for an excessively high price," he declared.

"Public authorities will give particular attention to price raising in order that the responsibility for profiteering if any is found to exist, may be properly placed on the parties which are to blame and action be taken to correct such an abuse."

PLENTY OF BITUMINOUS.

Reports from the New England railroads is asserted, shows an increasing number of soft coal receipts daily, the cars per day having increased from 294 during September to 332 a day during October.

"That much of the coal is being taken by our householders, who are showing a determined spirit to win this strike and save money on their heating bill, is evident from reports received by the Governors' committee.

He advises the householder not to insist on getting prepared sizes (all lumps) when ordering low volatile bituminous because the supply is limited and the price ranges from $4.50 to $7 a ton at the mines.

"Many consumers report that when they buy it they receive an extremely large percentage of fine coal," he said.

RUN OF MINE COAL.

"It is recommended that lumpy run-of-mine low volatile bituminous, which will eventually be used by our householders, should now be given preference for heating purposes."

According to the chairman, the lumpy run-of-mine can be bought for from $2 to $3 a ton at the mine, with a freight rate of about $4 a ton to Boston.

"In fact," he said, "Mr. J. S. Brenns, secretary-Somerset County Coal Operators' Association, Somerset, Pa., advises that many mines in his district are idle because of lack of orders, and beseeches us to send him some orders for a lumpy run-of-mine low volatile bituminous coal, the price of which he said is about $2 a ton at the mines."

32 TRAPPED BY WAVES OF SMOKE

Many Rescued by Lynn Firemen and Police in Third Incendiary Blaze

Today for the third time in four months, thirty-two tenants of the building at No. 27 Bond street, Lynn, were in danger from apparently incendiary fire.

Many women and children were carried from the smoke-filled three-story building by police and firemen, while others made their escape from the roof to the tops of adjoining houses.

Mrs. Henry Miller, wife of the owner and proprietor of the tenement house, declares all the fires have been set by a former tenant, with whom she had had a disagreement. According to the police report, the fire was caused by hot ashes from a furnace, but when Mrs. Miller stated there had not been a fire in the furnace this year an investigation was immediately started.

Salvatore Fiucco, who, with his wife and three children, lives on the third floor, arose to procure medicine for his sick wife when he smelled smoke. His shouting awoke other dwellers on other floors and their combined shoutings caused a passerby to turn in an alarm.

When the first fire apparatus arrived the firemen could see faces framed in each smoke-belching window. Many were preparing to jump. These were warned back by the shouts of the firemen and police and by the sight of ladders being raised towards them.

Among those trapped in their rooms and rescued were:

Mr. and Mrs. Deaggino De Pippo and two children, on the second floor.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Reichlen, their daughter, Elvira, three, and year-old twins, Gertrude and Annie on the third floor.

Henry Miller, owner and proprietor of the place, who occupies an apartment on the first floor, was aided out through a window by policemen, and his wife and two children, Jeanette, nine months, and Elliott, six years, were carried out by firemen.

SAYS HE'S THE GOAT IN REVERE CASE

Fred Menard, Revere fire truck driver whose license was suspended by Motor Registrar Goodwin, and the driver's young daughter, one of three children, another of whom is critically ill.

GOODWIN'S CHARGES PROBED BY WALSH

Mayor John E. Walsh of Revere announced today that he had started a single-handed investigation of charges made against his police department by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

He said that Registrar Goodwin had been assured of his hearty sympathy and cooperation and he had subordinated all other duties to the investigation.

The Mayor declared he would attempt to find the answer aroused by Goodwin's unfavorable use of his inspectors with a view to fixing an automobile case, and claimed that he "lay his cards on the table."

Registrar Goodwin's charges were made following the suspension by him of the license of Fred Menard, driver of Engine No. 2 of Revere.

Informed that Menard would continue to drive regardless of the suspension, Goodwin declared in that case he would have the man arrested by his own inspectors.

He said the Revere police were incapable of enforcing the automobile law in any other and related his alleged lying attempt which followed the arrest of a man for drunken driving.

When a Boston Evening American reporter visited Revere today he found a general indignation in the part of all concerned to submit peacefully to the dictates of the registrar.

Fire Chief Edmund said he has no official notice of the suspension, but if Menard's license had been suspended he would not drive.

Menard himself, the father of three children, one of whom is critically ill, expressed his willingness to take his medicine, although protesting he was being made a goat.

Mayor Walsh said: "I am in entire sympathy and hearty accord with Mr. Goodwin's words. If Mr. Goodwin has suspended Menard's license, it means Menard will drive neither the fire truck nor his own machine.

"As far as the charges regarding the police department are concerned, I will say that I am making an intensive investigation of the police in general and of certain incidents in particular.

G. A. Bardwell Dead

George A. Bardwell, 63 years of age, of No. 2 Hillside place, Charlestown, was found dead today in bed at his home, by his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Bardwell. The police say, Bardwell has been under treatment for heart trouble for three months. Dr. John F. O'Brien reported the man died from natural causes.

JAZZ AND JOY COLLEGE LIFE HIT BY LITTLE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 2—(A.P.)—Dr. Clarence Cook Little, formerly head of the University of Maine, was installed as sixth president of the University of Michigan today. Representatives of nearly 100 universities, colleges and normal schools all over the country, including the presidents of 23 major educational institutions, attended.

The university, Dr. Little said, in his inaugural address, is no place for the study of social problems, because "the environment of carefree, finally vagrant, imitative youth, which characterizes our undergraduate groups, does not fairly present problems of automobiling, liquor or sex, as they will have to be met in later life.

"We cannot train a man in the development of scholastic powers," he said, "in the atmosphere of a veritable Gettysburg of social activities where, after a prolonged artillery preparation of jazz and fast traveling joy rides, a 'picket's charge of dates,' and petty, but absorbing gossip, is in progress.

"Over-emphasis on the intemperance in automobiles, use of liquor and petting among students of our universities must be stopped because it is not the time or the place to investigate or decide these matters."

Dr. Little avowed his unqualified support for intercollegiate athletics, and said he knew of no substitute to occupy the physical and mental powers of thousands of students interested in such sports.

"In the day of the highly explosive mixture of youth, gasoline and liquor borne swiftly on balloon tires to remote retreats, in an era of college comic publications and terpsichorean efforts, skating on the thinnest possible ice of decency," he said, "it would take Hercules himself to guarantee a fair substitute, and I believe he cheerfully would admit that the Augean stables were, in comparison, an early season practice game."

Dr. Little is thirty-seven years old, the youngest man ever to head the university.

RIVAL LEADERS TO EXPLAIN FUEL STRIKE

Both sides of the coal controversy, the miners' side and that of the producer and mine operator, will be heard November 12, when the matter is argued publicly by two high officials of the opposing factions.

The debate will be held under auspices of the Women's Trade Union League, of which Mrs. Mary Gordon Thompson is president, and will give Bostonians first hand information on the foundations of the quarrel and possible means of healing the breach.

It is expected that the anthracite vs. bituminous wrangle will also come in for discussion during the debate.

BANK GETS STONE STEP FROM LAFAYETTE HOME

An old flagstone from Chateau Chavaniac, France, the birthplace of General Lafayette, has been received by the State Street Trust Company. It will be placed near the new main office of the bank.

District Attorney O'Brien to the Citizens of Boston

A Declaration of Independence

He pledges to serve the citizens of this great city with the same ability, fidelity and conscientiousness that he has served them as District Attorney: to be independent at all times—his sole purpose to give the people the BEST and the most progressive administration possible; to be independent of boss rule — responsive only to the will of the people; to be (and he is) free of all promises, political or otherwise, and untrammeled to administer the duties of Mayor fairly, honestly and in accordance with his conscience.

A Fearless District Attorney—An Unbossed Mayor

He is the only candidate independent of partisan or political control.

He stands for the law and the spirit of the City Charter, as befits the PEOPLE'S ATTORNEY.

Without law and the observance of its intent and spirit, we have chaos such as this campaign has developed.

He has the support of the honest, home-loving men and women who believe in this declaration of his principles.

All good citizens are rallying around his candidacy.

They will approve of these principles by voting for him on Tuesday.

To insure your finding his name, start at the bottom of the list of the names of candidates for Mayor and told her story before 200 spectators crowded into the auditorium of Watts Hall, with State troopers in olive drab uniforms scattered about the room.

PRISON MATRON DESCRIBES REVELS

Examined by State Senator Frederick W. Hinckley, an avowed anti-Klansman, who took charge of the prosecution of evidence today, Mrs. Clifford described "Vinegar cocktails" taken by women prisoners, to the amusement of her hearers.

In response to questions she declared she had made complaints to Warden Lester B. Eaton of conditions revealed by "old inmates' stories, but he merely replied, "You can't believe anything these girls tell you."

The hearing was resumed at 10 o'clock, and according to Senator Hinckley, will be transferred to Augusta tomorrow.

The hearing room was crowded from one-third to one-half the audience on the floor and in a small gallery being women.

Called to the stand by Senator Hinckley, Mrs. Clifford laughed into a store which at times had the spectators guessing.

After explaining that her only reason for appearing was because of the attacks on her husband not the fact that the three women formerly who made the attacks posed for newspaper photographers, Mrs. Clifford described meetings in the solitary cells as related to her.

NAMES PRISONERS.

The witness said that Mrs. Ella Staples, one of the nine women inmates, told her on one occasion after returning from solitary that she had "met" five men: two guards and three prisoners while locked in.

"Did you inquire the names?" asked Senator Hinckley.

"I did," was the reply. "Mrs. Staples said under no circumstances would she divulge the names of the guards, as she didn't want them to lose their jobs. She told me the names of the men prisoners were Edward Graffam, a Rver; "Dutch" Darkes, a member of the board of governors of the Welfare League, and Phil Fallon."

Asked if she reported this story, Mrs. Clifford replied:

"Mrs. Staples asked me to go down to the cell she had occupied and get some clothing she had left, also a piece of meat and some butter. She said she was afraid the odor would attract attention.

"I went down there and found in the solitary cell she had occupied a large piece of beef, so large I had to carry it in both hands, wrapped in a corset cover, and also about a pound of butter.

REPORTED TO COLGAN.

"I reported the matter to Deputy Warden L. J. Colgan. He said: 'I can't believe that to be true.'

"As a result of my complaint I was sent to the women's department until after my husband to get the Staples girls story. I don't know what occurred at that time, but nothing ever happened.

"Other girls went to solitary after that, and each time after their return told stories of meeting men there.

"I reported them to Warden Eaton and he only replied: 'You can't believe a word these girls tell you.'"

The witness testified that the inmates she had described occurred during January, February and March of this year. She said she finally stopped complaining as it did no good.

BY FINGER SIGNALS.

Asked how the women made entrances with the men, Mrs. Clifford said when they passed through the lobby on the way to their own quarters, they were visible to the men through an uncurtained doorway. She said the women made signals by raising one or more fingers, and the men did likewise.

The witness said she believed these signals had to do with prospective confinement in solitary.

She said she complained to guards and asked to have curtains drawn, but nothing was done.

Asked about discipline generally in the prison, the witness said it was extremely lax.

Mrs. Clifford said she knew drugs were used by women inmates, and by most lax control in the prison with the connivance of guards.

In response to a question by Senator Hinckley, she described the vinegar cocktail made from headache tablets dissolved in vinegar drawn from small bottles of sweet pickles.

ACCUSES GUARD.

She said that on one occasion the warden withdrew vinegar from the women's quarters, but they received bottles of pickles through the guards, and obtained vinegar.

SUPPLY CONTINUED.

The supply of headache tablets was never stopped, according to Mrs. Clifford.

After drinking the concoction she said the girls' arms and nails became blue, bags appeared under their eyes and they fell from their beds in a stupor.

Asked if at any time she had obtained evidence of women being visited by men in solitary confinement other than the stories of the girls, Mrs. Clifford said that two of the girls who signed the letter attacking her husband had returned from solitary with blue denim handkerchiefs issued to male prisoners and carried their wales.

The witness described the location of the cells and pointed out that it would have been impossible to have tossed the handkerchiefs in.

In reply to a question she said the ration in solitary was four slices of bread with water each day.

Mrs. Clifford testified that in order to get into solitary confinement, the girls started tantrums in their rooms, breaking furniture and turning the place upside down. She said they boasted days in advance that they were going into solitary.

"DAPPER DAN" IS KING.

The witness said the women inmates told her "Dapper Dan" Fallon, serving a term for manslaughter, was king of the prison. Mrs. Clifford said Fallon had many good qualities.

The woman said she had tried not to listen to the stories of the girls because they were so revolting.

At no time, she declared, did she get satisfaction out of Warden Eaton on making complaints.

Referring to the charges made by the three women inmates that the chaplain placed his hands on them, Mrs. Clifford said that at no time was he in the women's quarters unaccompanied.

"When he first took the position," said his wife, "I warned him never to go into the women's section alone because of the character of the inmates. Whenever he visited the quarters he was always accompanied, generally by myself."

Mrs. Clifford recommended that the solitary cell for women be placed on the third floor where their quarters are located, instead of in the basement as at present.

SECOND HAND STORY.

Frank Allen, a former guard who was discharged four weeks ago, was the next witness. He said discipline was very lax, that the prison was run by prisoners, and that they had all the liberty they wanted. Under cross-examination the witness admitted all he knew of these things was hearsay, and that the affidavit he signed was written by someone else.

Roscoe Staples, a harness dealer in Rockland, who purchases prison-made goods, testified prisoners cursed and threatened him because he signed a petition requesting an investigation into prison management. Staples said he did not care to return to the prison.

Charles E. Shorey, overseer in the harness shop, corroborated the testimony of Staples regarding the threat. He said a prisoner named Hardy was one of a group from which the threat came. He heard a remark to the effect: "We'll get him if he comes in here again."

Under cross-examination by former Attorney General Puttnam the witness said he did not report the incident.

He said there were two monitors in the shop, but did not know their names. Neither did he know the name of one monitor who is a member of the governing board of the Welfare League.

ALL READY TO ROLL THEIR OWN

Two pretty autoists who were among first to obtain 1926 number plates today. They are, left to right, Dorothy May and Helen Kelliher. The new plates have a blue background and white numerals.

FIRST OF 1926 AUTO PLATES ARE ISSUED

With the delivery of the new 1926 automobile registration plates for numbers over 100,000, beginning today, only a comparatively few people applied for their plates, but on the mail applications for numbers up to 99,999 the office of the registrar was flooded with letters. These plates will be issued by mail December 1.

The new plates are of a blue background with white numerals. The State designation is placed in the lower right-hand corner instead of in the left, as in 1925.

Registrar Goodwin has cautioned all those who apply for plates by mail not to enclose cash, but to remit by check or money order, owing to the chance of the applications being lost.

At the office of the registrar special clerks from other departments had to be transferred to the mailing room to take care of the incoming mail applications.

Garage owners or others who use more than one plate may secure application blanks at the Commonwealth Pier or at one of the permanent branch offices located in Pittsfield, Worcester, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Fall River, New Bedford, Brockton, Quincy and Hyannis. Individuals may also procure application blanks at these places and at Room 44, City Hall, Boston.

Mail applications should be sent in all cases direct to the Registrar at the Commonwealth Pier.

TALK BOOSTS MOTORS

Bullish enthusiasm ran riot in the motor shares as stories were circulated that General Motors, Chrysler and other large corporations would follow Studebaker in the distribution of special dividends.

A better demand also was noted for the standard industrials and rails. U. S. Steel common climbing to 129¾, or within a fraction of the year's high. American Can and Atlantic Coast Line touching new second highs at 262 and 222, respectively, and Baldwin moving up 3 points to 126¾.

Spectacular advances also took place in the high-priced specialties, Virginia Railway & Power and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe each jumping 10 points and Dupont 7¾. Commission houses were swamped with business, much of it representing odd lot transactions of small customers.

Total sales had passed one and one-half million shares before the end of the third hour with the ticker reported between 10 to 20 minutes behind the market.

St. Paul issues were strong, Texas Land rose 81 points.

M'DONALD'S CAMPAIGN STANDS ON WAR RECORD

The war record of Kenneth C. Macdonald, Jr., is standing by him in Ward 17, where he is one of eight candidates for City Council.

In addition to his close association with many veteran organizations, he has taken an active part in the public life in the Dorchester section and served as a member of the Emergency Fuel Commission in 1922. Macdonald was once a candidate for the Legislature and tasted defeat by a narrow margin.

To End Severe Cough Quickly, Try This

For zeal results, this old home-made remedy beats them all. Easily prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home-made remedy. The prompt relief is almost magical. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WOMAN GAGGED BY KLAN, LEFT IN STREET

two masked men, attired in the garb of the Ku Klux Klan, who gagged and bound her and then carried her to the street, where she was suddenly left in a hysterical state when both assailants fled upon the approach of neighbors aroused by her screams.

Her physician, Dr. C. C. Morrison, Jr., who lives nearby, was summoned. After treating her for hysteria, a thorough examination could disclose no serious injury, he reported.

Although a considerable amount of valuable rings, several watches, a necklace and a small sum of money lay on the dresser near her bed, the two men did not disturb what police consider tangible loot. Although a telephone call to police was immediately sent, authorities did not arrive until an hour later.

Neither police nor Mrs. Hamilton could ascribe a motive for the midnight attack.

According to the victim's story to the police, she had entertained friends at her home, an apartment on the third floor of the Grant Block, Main street. They were two sisters, Marguerite and Adelaide Small.

GAGGED AND BOUND.

Her company left at 10 o'clock, after which, being sleepless, she lay in bed and read until midnight, she stated.

Suddenly, awakened by the touch of rough hands, she said she saw two men, robed in white, their heads covered with folds of white cloth, with apertures cut for the eyes, experienced the sickening sensation of a gag being forced into her mouth and strong arms winding rope thugs around her body, pinioning her hands. Then she lost consciousness.

The next she remembered, she continued, was feeling herself deposited on the ground while the taller of the two whispered to the other that he would go and return with the automobile, in structing his pal to keep guard.

In the meantime, neighbors, awakened by the moans of the victim, came running from various parts of the block. Upon their appearance, the man left to guard her fled, she asserted.

Police investigated several clues, but could uncover nothing that would lead to identification of the thugs.

WOMEN SHOW MARITAL SCARS IN COURT

Tales of Cruelty Told by Divorce Seekers in Middlesex Court

Tales of cruel and abusive treatment were told by women seeking divorces in the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge, today.

Testifying against her husband, Henry W. Parkinson, earning $70 a week, Mrs. Della Parkinson told Judge Leggat that for two years they lived at No. 252 Beacon street, Somerville, under the same roof but in separate apartments. They have a daughter, 14, and son, 11.

Once, she said, her husband knocked her unconscious. Bruises on her arms were shown to the court. Judge Leggat granted her a divorce, $15 a week alimony and $35 a month for the support of the boy.

Mrs. Grace F. Gilman of Stoneham, showed a scar on her cheek as part of the evidence against her husband, John F., a salesman. She is asking for custody of their four-year-old girl and alimony, which the husband is contesting.

Cambridge court attaches described Mrs. Gertrude E. Smith as the prettiest young matron in Probate court for many months. Twenty-seven years old and was granted a divorce from her husband, Myles H. Smith, for desertion.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

BY USING TANLAC

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider it any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groeschner, fireman.

"Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. At times gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. These awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my days seemed to be shortening rapidly.

"I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute.

M'DERMOTT TO TOUR CITY TONIGHT

George H. McDermott is to make a city-wide tour of every ward for the closing of his campaign for election to the Boston School Committee. He declares that he stands on his record as a public-spirited citizen and as one well qualified to judge the needs of the school children of Boston, since he has three children.

Mr. McDermott received his early training in the public schools of Brighton and the Boston Latin School and attended Harvard College and Harvard Law School. He is at present an attorney in Boston, a director of the Brighton Cooperative Bank and a trustee of the Brighton Five Cent Savings Bank.

During the World War he served as a government appeal agent and was a member of the Legal Advisory Board in Boston. He is a member of the Elks, Knights of Columbus, Charitable Irish Society and the Clover Club.

He became a candidate for the School Committee as a result of the solicitation of many of the reputable and representative citizens of Boston.

Speaking last night, Mr. McDermott said:

"I am proud to be a product of the Boston Public Schools, particularly the Boston Latin School which, in competition with public and private schools throughout the country, was able to place fourteen of its boys among the twenty-five who obtained the highest ratings in their admission examinations at Harvard in 1923.

"I believe that the electorate of Boston should vote for a committee which will demand the development of sound efficiency, economy and education as a means of making Boston stand out, as always, the intellectual hub of the universe.

"The keeping in mind of these three principles will provide for successful administration of all school policies, sane expenditure of the taxpayers' money, and will offer to children the opportunity for the best educational development through character training and sound instruction for the making of good citizens."

LEADERS HELD IN $1,800,000 RUM PLOT

39 Prominent Officials and Politicians Have Been Indicted at St. Louis

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—The treasury today suspended A. J. Hellmich, collector of internal revenue at St. Louis, who was among those named in indictments returned in Indianapolis by the Federal grand jury.

St. Louis, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—United States Attorney Curry today made public the names of thirty-nine persons, including prominent officials and politicians in St. Louis, Indianapolis and Cincinnati, who were indicted at Indianapolis, Saturday, by a Federal Grand Jury, on a charge of conspiracy in the $1,800,000 Jack Daniel whiskey withdrawal plot.

Included in the list was Imogene Remus, wife of the former Cincinnati bootlegger, who has been estranged from him since his recent release from the Atlanta penitentiary. Remus, who testified before the grand jury, was not indicted. Others indicted include:

Don H. Robinson, Thomas J. McAuliffe, Thomas F. McCafferty, Leonard Stone and Edward Meininger, named by Remus as purchasers of the whiskey for $125,000 from Motlow and associates.

Michael J. Whalen, Democratic city committeeman and former alderman here.

"Tony" Foley, notorious St. Louis character.

Arnold J. Hellmich, collector of internal revenue for the Eastern Missouri District.

DISTILLER NAMED.

Nat Goldstein, former circuit clerk of St. Louis and one of the participants in distribution of the Lowden campaign fund of 1920.

Fred Kaser, former Congressman and present St. Louis County Republican leader.

Michael J. Kinney of St. Louis, brother of the State Senator and former deputy under Collector Hellmich, and gauger at the Daniel warehouse here during the time when conspirators are believed to have been "milking" the barrels there.

Lem Motlow, wealthy Tennessee distiller, who shot and killed a Pullman conductor on one of his trips here, but was acquitted of a charge of murder.

EX-CONVICT INVOLVED.

Tom Heffernan, an associate of Motlow in ownership of the whiskey and one of the alleged participants in its sale to a syndicate backed by Remus.

Henry L. Dahlman, the third partner in ownership of the liquor prior to its sale.

John Marcus, former convict, who was arrested in Indianapolis on Christmas Eve, 1923, with an automobile load of Jack Daniel whiskey.

Helmich this afternoon sent a telegram to President Coolidge resigning as internal revenue collector.

PULLMAN CAR SURCHARGE UPHELD BY U. S. COURT

Washington, Oct. 2 (I.N.S.).—The surcharge on Pullman fares collected by the Pullman Company and turned over to the railroads was upheld today by the District Court of Appeals. The case came up on a judgment for $4.27 in favor of the Pullman Company against James C. Waters, Jr., who contended that there being no concurrence on the part of the railroads with the tariff filed by the Pullman company there existed no legal basis for collection of the surtax. The court declared the tariff was filed after a hearing at which all parties were heard, and as the surcharge is for the benefit of the railroads its concurrence might well be inferred.

WOOD'S SON GRANTED DELAY IN DIVORCE CASE

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 2 (A.P.)—The hearing of the application of Mrs. Katherine W. T. Wood of this city, for a divorce from Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood, son of General Leonard Wood, scheduled in Superior Court today, was postponed, no definite day being fixed. The postponement was asked by Lieutenant Wood's lawyer. Wood said he had not decided what course to pursue other than to endeavor to arrange should the divorce be granted, that he have the privilege of seeing his two children at reasonable intervals. Wood returned to New York.

AUTOIST'S LIE TO JUDGE COSTS HIM $50 FINE

Greenfield, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Judge Ball fined a motorist $50 for lying to him today. Joseph Nash of Northfield Farms was brought before the court for driving a car while under the influence of liquor. He told the judge that although he was intoxicated, when arrested, another man was at the wheel. The judge called the arresting officer, and found that Nash was at the wheel when apprehended.

"I was going to fine you $100," said the court, "but now I'm going to make it $150. The other 50 is for lying to me."

FAMOUS PLAYERS-LASKY DENY MONOPOLY CHARGE

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—The Famous Players-Lasky Motion Picture Corporation today denied the conspiracy and monopoly charges [illegible] which have been pending before the Federal Trade Commission since 1921.

In a brief the corporation declared that its organization and development had been but a lawful integration in the motion picture field, not as broad as in the cases of the United States Steel Corporation or the Ford Motor Company.

The brief denies directly some of the evidence taken by examiners for the commission at hearings throughout the country during the past two years and contradicts the conclusions reached by the commission's counsel.

WILL PROTEST BROMFIELD STREET AUTO PARKING BAN

Merchants of Bromfield street, indignant over a proposed traffic ordinance which will abolish parking there, will meet at the office of the Retail Trade Board in the Boston Chamber of Commerce at 10:30 tomorrow morning to take steps to protest against what they consider an "unfair discrimination." The meeting was arranged today by Ralph Bromfield, manager of the Retail Trade Board, on receipt of complaints from several of the merchants. Brotherton machines have been permitted to park for 20 minutes on the street. Merchants with places of business on Bromfield street say that if parking is abolished there altogether, it will simply have the effect of driving a number of customers away and into other sections of the city to trade.

BUSINESS EXPERIENCE HIS QUALIFICATION

"Sixteen candidates for five positions, and I am the only business man," was the way James D. Casey put it to his hearers at rallies all over the city. Of the candidates, eleven are lawyers, two labor executives, one doctor, and one former school teacher who would handle the business of the School Department, which this year will cost the City over $17,000,000.

target of jeers and stones to avoid "strong-arm men."

In agreeable vein, the Mayor then proceeded to mind the absent Mr. Curdy for his declared timidity and assured him that in the comfortable surrounding of police headquarters the Democratic city office holder could contribute he would be perfectly safe and would not be subjected to molestation, even should he be found guilty.

WILL KEEP OUT THE KLAN

Turning his fire toward Dist. Attorney O'Brien, candidate for Mayor and

"I personally went South to assist in fighting the Ku Klux Klan out of Boston for four years and also fought as Mayor. I have the assurance there will be no Klan meetings for another year."

Then he launched into an attack on Alonzo B. Cook, stated he declared Cook a member of the Council of Orangemen, all of whom, he said, he charged, are Klansmen.

One by one Mayor Curley took up the candidates of the other mayoralty aspirants and asked what he called the flaws in their qualifications.

The meeting sometimes bressed into the opening hour with all ten candidates jointly strapped into their seats and determined to go through to the ultimate roast be it bitter or sweet.

Old Man Politics announced today that when the whistle blows for the polls to open at 6 a.m. tomorrow the official lining up of the home will be complete with non missing and no substitutions.

Having made things of a high, unburden himself, but soon impatient, it was subsequently revealed Mal Nichols summoned newspapermen into his presence today and said he would win either by a big margin or by a close vote.

This was important light on the battle and the reporters were visibly impressed. Nichols expressed gratification that Mayor Curley has conceded him 11,000 Democratic votes and declared the concession to be an admission of a Nichols victory.

If Cook gets 10,000 votes, Nichols said he will win without question, but if the state Auditor gets 15,000, Nichols will be licked, he declared.

The leading Republican candidates, Cord O'Brien and Burrill are hot pursuit on the line when the returns are in. Nichols said he would rest on the ballot, at 8 a.m. tomorrow in Faneuil Hall, Jamaica Plain.

City employees today were given the unexpected boon of receiving a half holiday on election day, that they might have plenty of time to reach and deliberate on the exact spot of the ballot on which to mark their magic "X."

This came into effect after Mayor Curley, overflowing in generosity morning newspaper editorial declaring Nichols to be the only broom capable of giving City Hall a through cleaning—sent copies of his order to all department heads.

It was regarded as a fatherly tip and the heliotropes were carefully tacked on where all the city toilers might read and well consider.

IN WHIRLWIND FINISH.

Start Coakley fired another broadside at Martin Lomasney today and hallenged him to debate tonight at the Coakley rally in Mechanics Building. But as that came on the West End primaries, and the guests of a calmly meditated retirement pack.

Three hostings rallies in which candidates marked the dash engaged, but tonight all ten of the aspirants will go into high in an attempt to garner as many votes as possible into the fold.

One of the biggest of the mobile ballyhoos was that of Joseph H. O'Neil in the Tremont Theatre, with Joseph Cotter in the chair, and with the former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald and a host list of lesser lights doing the harangning.

At Faneuil Hall, W. T. A. Fitzgerald held forth, and "Teddy" Glynn and Mayor Curley waged verbal war against the opposition at Dorchester square, where Chief McCarthy demonstration was expected.

The Jimmie Duffy Ammunition assailed the candidacy of District Attorney O'Brien today. It was announced from O'Brien headquarters.

Spectacular as the campaign has been thus far, it promises to be come more and more fervid as the hour for the opening of the poll draws nearer and the outlook is for the hustings to close tonight in a veritable saturnalia of oratory, fire, automobile parades, and blatherskiting instruments a series of rallies.

No part of the city will be too remote or too unimportant to escape visitation, and no voter will be too humble to be ignored in pressing appeals. Analysis on the eve of all the candidates' job success has been placed to a fever heat and all seem obsessed with the conviction of victory.

The rooms of the Hendricks Club Ward 8, took an unscorted appearance when a large crowd of women appeared to hear Martin Lomasney

Theodore A. Glynn

I have no fear of the result. The people are with me. We have waged a clean, aggressive battle that will show its effect when the ballots are counted.

THEODORE A. GLYNN.

Malcolm E. Nichols

Boston's voters will assert tomorrow their demand for better municipal management — better streets, better garbage and ashes collection, better lights, better everything; more value, less waste; Nichols for mayor.

MALCOLM E. NICHOLS

Joseph H. O'Neil

I am confident of success and feel sure, now that the campaign is nearing the end and the people have had opportunity to study the issues and the candidates representing those issues, that I shall be chosen mayor of Boston by at least a majority of all its citizens.

JOSEPH H. O'NEIL.

Daniel H. Coakley

Every time I have been given an impartial hearing, in court or out of court, the decision has been mine. I have spoken to 150,000 voters of Boston. I have told them my story. I am confident they will return a verdict in my favor.

DANIEL H. COAKLEY.

John A. Keliher

I have frankly and clearly placed my record of public service before the voters. I have shown that in the performance of my public trusts not a word of scandal has been directed against my administration. I am the candidate of no boss, clique or faction. Twenty-two thousand free-minded voters signed my nomination petition. Upon this record I go before the voters with the fullest confidence in their integrity and intelligence.

JOHN A. KELIHER.

Thomas C. O'Brien

The manhood and womanhood of Boston are behind me. The people want and shall have honest government. Homebuyers who want a Mayor free from political entanglements will elect O'Brien.

THOMAS C. O'BRIEN.

Alonzo B Cook

I have always kept faith with the voters and they have always supported me. If the 81,000 voters in Boston go to the polls again for me in this election, I shall be Mayor of Boston.

ALONZO B. COOK.

W. T. A. Fitzgerald

My hope for election is based solely upon my past record as a public servant and upon the fact that I have conducted a clean-cut, honorable, gentlemanly campaign. I am confident of victory.

W. T. A. FITZGERALD.

Charles L. Burrill

I am convinced that the great mass of the citizens of Boston are done with bosses, and are going to elect a Mayor who stands on his own feet, and not one dominated by the Curley or Innes machines. Judging by past performances, I will get more than enough votes for election and Boston will have for four years a Republican administration.

CHARLES L. BURRILL.

Walter G. McGauley

After having thoroughly canvassed the city, I feel that the people of Boston are rallying to my standard to such an extent that I will be the next Mayor of Boston.

DR. WALTER G. McGAULEY.

unbridden himself. Hitherto the meetings at the club, just before election, have been characterized by more or less heavily veiled secrecy. They were, in the past, held as sessions in which the slate selected by the political Warwick was given out to his fellow servants.

STRAW HAT ON MARTIN.

Despite the fact there was a hint of Winter sharpness in the air, Martin entered the hall with a straw, Leghorn shaped hat on the head, and, wiping his perspiring brow as though he were on the sands of Palm Beach with a hot Florida sun beating down on him.

He mounted the rostrum and after a rather tame reference to some of the candidates he worked himself into a passion as he dealt with Daniel H. Coakley without gloves. He tore the collar from his shirtband, and then loosened his shirt at the neck.

His face was flushed and his voice bitter when he shouted: "Coakley is a quitter! Do you know what that means? God hates a quitter!" Then in scathing terms he described the attorney as quitting when he was hissed off the floor of the constitutional convention, where he represented Brighton; in the case of former District Attorney Tufts of Middlesex, and in the campaign of the late District Attorney Pelletier when the latter was a candidate for Mayor four years ago.

O'NEIL INTERRUPTS.

He appealed to the men and women of the ward to stand by O'Neil, whom he declared was the regular candidate. While Lomasney was talking Candidate O'Neil appeared in the hall and was given opportunity to speak. He made an address of about 10 minutes duration, in which he told of his early struggles and his qualifications for office, after which Lomasney resumed his talk.

John I. Fitzgerald, in opening the meeting, as chairman, stressed the fact that the election will be close and that one vote may determine the choice of candidate. Therefore he invoked the appearance of every O'Neil voter at the polls.

The Museum of Fine Arts will be closed all day Tuesday, the 3rd of November, 1925, except to annual subscribers, on the occasion of the unveiling of the Mural decorations of JOHN SINGER SARGENT, and the opening of the great memorial exhibition of the artist's works.

tress Attorney O'Brien as the "one soft" in the campaign, and said that he and Keliher had no chance to win.

He told his hearers that they were bigoots and they had a baker nomination to perform Tuesday. He urged elimination from the contest of all those who will not clear the field for O'Neil and victory.

Save the party for Walsh for Senator and Al Smith for President four years hence," he said.

At a meeting at South Boston, where he appeared later, Candidate O'Neil rebuked the proposition of Malcolm E. Nichols to bring a new Federal building to Boston.

"I read with amazement in the papers," said Mr. O'Neil, "that one of the things which Mr. Nichols proposes for Boston is that he will try and secure for Boston a new Federal Building. What has that to do with the municipal campaign, Mr. Nichols? Does the city treasury of Boston contribute one cent to the erection of a Federal Building? Is it not entirely a problem of the Federal Government and are not the funds for a Federal Building a matter for Congress?

"I have served in Congress and I was a member of the Committee on Appropriations. I am sure that while I was there I was a respected representative of the people of Massachusetts. I shall be happy, as Mayor of Boston, to continue to urge upon Congress the erection of a new Federal building, but I shall not try to pretend that the erection of a Federal building in Boston is a municipal issue.

District Attorney O'Brien in a speech over the radio asserted that he "was poor and alone, but strong with the home lovers." Contending he was opposed by money, bosses, professional politicians and the underworld, he said:

"Every method has been tried to discredit my candidacy. I have stood on my feet in this fight and thus I am the only man in the contest who can continue to be his own boss after election."

John A. Keliher addressed a large meeting at the South End Municipal Building. In his district, where he won his earliest political battles, he urges the voters to stand behind him as the "South End candidate."

"If the cheers of this great crowd were carried out of this building and into the Hendricks Club," said Keliher, "Martin Lomasney would awaken to the fact that the South End will make its own choice in the municipality contest without any suggestion from him."

When the sheriff asked who the South End candidate would be on Tuesday there were cries of "Keliher," and one voice shouted,

"The South End has always been loyal to you, Jack."

19 RALLIES TONIGHT IN EAST BOSTON FOR NILAND

HUB INITIATES SUSPENDERS FOR GIRLS

Snakeskin Pocketbooks and Snow Glasses Are Among the Recent Novelties

Suspenders for girls!

Those ugly necessities discarded by modern man as a nuisance and bore have been resurrected from the huge rubbish pile of past fineries into dainty articles for milady.

First introduced by Gloria Swanson, fashion dictator of the screen, there were "oohs" and "ahs" from girls in the audience. Now they are being introduced in Boston.

These ultra feminine suspenders are made of striped ribbon in every popular color. They are similar to the suspenders which the older male generation still clings to only more dainty and smaller. Tiny button-holes faced to metal buttons, both back and front, on a sport skirt.

INTRODUCED IN HUB.

"Pour le sport," they are being shown exclusively by a Temple place specialty shop. They are worn over a tailored silk shirt waist, the latter usually being of white material.

The skirt is made both of velvet and sometimes tweed and is circular. The flare of the skirt and dainty-ness of the waist make a charming contrast to the masculine air of the suspenders.

Boston is the first city to offer suspenders for women. Fashion forecasts are that they will be the flapper's most popular fad this Winter.

Beads of ostrich feathers were introduced in the Hub last month but a Tremont street shop has advanced a step further in novelties and is showing handbags of snake skins.

SNAKE SKIN POCKETBOOKS.

More bizarre than anything seen in pocketbooks are these snake skin bags. They come in large and small sizes and are soft and flexible. Only skins of the largest snakes are used and they have an almost uncanny resemblance to the live snakes fearsome by all.

The old fashioned glass show balls, of which interior decorators say no house is properly furnished without one, can be had in every home now that a Boylston street specialist is offering imitations for only one dollar.

The old snow balls have been so costly that only the rich could afford them for decorative purposes. These modern ones are very similar and are lovely for mantel pieces and small tables.

Inclosed in the glass ball are figures of snow men and girls. Once picked up and shaken the ball fills with snow flakes which rise from the bottom. The "storm" lasts quite a few minutes and as soon as it quiets down is ready for a jiffy to start a new one all over.

3 HURT IN CRASHES OF AUTOS IN SOMERVILLE

SAVE A LIFE

Three men were injured in two auto accidents within one hundred yards of each other on Medford street, Somerville, today. William G. Hall of No. 329 Amory street, Jamaica Plain, and David Levine of No. 585 Morton street, Dorchester, were shaken up and bruised when a truck and coupe were in collision at Medford and Central streets. A short time later Max Bornstein of 41 Vernon street, Somerville, sustained a severe injury to his head when the machine he was operating was in collision with a taxi at Medford and Bartlett streets. He was taken to the City Hospital.

Sargent's Murals Unveiled at Art Museum Tomorrow

National Civic Federation Meets at Copley-Plaza Today

Betty Alden

UNROLLING THIS WEEK on society's scroll comes a zestful blend of functions, some of a trend distinctly frivolous and others making for social enrichment in very marked degree. Decidedly the latter are two that stand forth pre-eminent—tomorrow's unveiling at the Museum of Fine Arts of John Singer Sargent's murals and today's gathering at the Copley-Plaza under National Civic Federation banners.

T. JEFFERSON COOLIDGE, JR., president of the Museum, with the trustees, have sent out cards for the unveiling which promises to be an artistic achievement coupled as it is with a private view of the Memorial Exhibition. Some two hundred Sargent works are gathered at the Museum, a treasure trove to his scores of admirers.

NOR DOES THE SARGENT artistic feast end with the private view, for on Wednesday, through the courtesy of trustees of Fenway Court, the Isabella Stewart Gardner collection of Sargents, a very considerable number, will be on view to guests of the Art Museum.

AS TO THE Civic Federation, its annual meeting and luncheon, the introduction to smart Boston is necessary, for virtually every Bostonian of note is enrolled in that organization. Today the feminine portion held forth with Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames as leader.

MRS. GERALD BRAMWELL, a smart member of the Senior Supper Dance Set and an ardent worker for philanthropy. Mrs. Bramwell was Faithful Ames.

FOR THE DEBUTANTES there's bright prospects, care free and enthralling. Mrs. William E. Sharpe fetchwhile Elizabeth Patterson and bride of some months) entertains for her sister, Miss Hope Patterson today at the Vesper Country Club in Lowell.

TOMORROW IS particularly Miss Nancy Morison's day in bud annals, with two affairs in her honor. Her parents, the Horace Morisons, follow up her presentation tea at the Morison home in Louisburg Square, with a Chilton Club dance in the evening.

Many Hub Debutantes to Be Entertained During Present Week

ON WEDNESDAY Mrs. A. Marshall Jones entertains at luncheon at the Women's Republican Club for her daughter, Miss Faith Jones, and the H. Hooper Lawrences present their daughter, Miss Caroline Lawrence, at tea at their Beacon street residence.

THAT SAME EVENING the buds and beaux gather at the Chilton Club for Mrs. Jasper Whiting's dance in compliment to the charming debutante daughter of the Thomas G. Frothinghams, Miss Eleanor.

MISS CAROLINE LAWRENCE'S formal presentation tea is shared with Miss Frances Whitlock, a Winsor girl, daughter of Major Frank Whitlock and Mrs. Whitlock of Cambridge. Miss Lawrence is a Winsor girl also, and spent the past Summer traveling in Europe.

IN ACCORDANCE with her usual custom, Mrs. Bryce J. Allan of Allanbank down on the North Shore, departs soon for a lengthy European stay. Her household entourage accompanies her, and she is taking a car for use on the Continent.

FOR THE PAST FEW Winters Mrs. Allan has lived mainly abroad, returning to this country but infrequently. This, too, has been the program of her sister, Mrs. Guy Norman.

WOMAN FIGHTS OFFICERS IN COURTROOM

Angered by the words of Probation Officer J. Stewart Cameron, Mary Tobin, alias Mary Bolan, attacked the officer in Waltham Court today and was subdued only after a fierce struggle.

The Tobin woman was charged with drunkenness. Probation Officer Cameron submitted her record, which included appearances on previous charges of drunkenness and dope selling.

As Cameron later passed the prisoner's pen, the Tobin woman jumped to her feet and faced him.

"You dog," she cried, and leaped for him. It took the combined efforts of Court Officer John J. Stankard, Motorcycle Officer Thomas Devany of Watertown and Police Matron Mrs. Mary Kinney to pull her away. After she had been subdued and led to a cell, Cameron and Devaney were treated for scratches and cuts.

The woman's appearance followed her discovery in a hencoop on Newton street, Waltham. Her face, bruised and beaten, she was taken to Waltham police station. There she told a story of having been driven to Waltham in a sedan with a man. In Waltham they changed to another machine, and on Newton street, she said, she was beaten by the man and thrown out of the car.

On the drunkenness charge today she was sentenced to Sherburne reformatory. She appealed.

DAVID I. WALSH ON STUMP FOR MAYOR QUINN

Cambridge was swept by a veritable whirlwind of political oratory today and tonight as the rival candidates brought their campaigns to an end.

Former United States Senator David I. Walsh was to speak at Prospect Hall tonight for Mayor Quinn, who is seeking reelection. Councillor Ralph W. Robart, his Republican opponent, had several rallies scheduled.

Attorney Timothy D. Sullivan, campaign manager of Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, predicts that the latter will secure a record vote at the polls tomorrow.

"Quinn will be elected by the largest majority he has ever received," declared Sullivan, in his statement. "Cambridge is solidly behind the Mayor in his fight for re-election. It is eager to indorse his record of achievements.

"I urge that every voter go to the polls tomorrow and do his duty as a citizen."

Few city elections in recent years has caused the excitement that has been noted during the past few days. Mayor Quinn has conducted rallies at various halls and Councillor Robart has been campaigning without a rest for the past week in halls and at various street corners.

The other candidates seeking election to office have been equally active, with President John J. McCarthy, Councillor Charles Shea, Councillor Daniel P. Leahy, Edward J. Sennott, Mrs. Florence Lee Whitman, Reuel Beach, Hugh Anderson and Councillor Daniel P. Collins, fighting it out for the coveted four seats in the city governing body "at-large."

MURPHY RALLIES ALL OVER SOMERVILLE

John J. Murphy, Democratic candidate for Mayor of Somerville, will hold rallies tonight in all public squares of the city and at the Bingham and Bennett Schools and Western Junior High School.

Mother Who Stole To Feed 4 Finds Samaritan Court

New York, Nov. 2 (I.N.S.).—A desperate mother, Mrs. Mary McGauley, who smashed a grocer's window to get food for her four children, came trembilingly into Wes Side Court today to face a charge of burglary and she walked out free—"case dismissed."

Not only that, but she was given promises of help from the judge, the Assistant District Attorney, the policeman who arrested her, and the complainant himself.

Three policemen went to her home. In a room smaller than the inside of a patrol wagon they found two girls, one five years, the other four, huddled beneath a thread-worn blanket. In another corner shivered a thirteen-year-old girl and the eldest son, fifteen-year-old John.

SCHOOL BUS HIT BY TRAIN; 7 KILLED

Boy Driver Says His View of Grade Crossing Blocked by Freight Cars

Nahunta, Ga., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Seven children were killed and twenty-five others injured when the Atlantic Coast Line's fast New York to Florida passenger train No. 81 crashed into a loaded school bus at a grade crossing here today.

The bus was bearing the town school wiped it was struck. The force of the impact scattered the children along the track and road.

The bodies and the injured children were placed on a special train and taken to Waycross, where the injured were placed in a hospital.

L. Roy Brewington, eighteen, driver of the bus, was said to be seriously injured.

Parties were organized here to call on parents who live from two to seven miles in the country and inform them of the children's death.

The known dead have been identified as Pearl Strickland, sixteen; Aubrey May Jones, fourteen; Doris Herrin, fourteen; May Thornton, twelve; a brother and sister named Lewis, aged ten and twelve.

The driver of the bus said a freight train on a siding prevented a view of the track. One of the children, sent ahead to see if a train was coming, was killed instantly.

MAN IS FOUND OVERCOME BY GAS FUMES

Wollaston Resident Is Discovered Senseless in a Yacht Club Locker; Will Recover

Frank L. Dunn, thirty-eight, of Arthorpe street, Wollaston, was found unconscious in one of the lockers of the Wollaston Yacht Club today. Gas was escaping from a burner in the locker. Mystery surrounds the case.

William C. Pierce, a fellow member of the club, discovered the odor of gas and traced it to the place where Dunn was found. With policemen David Farrell and Joseph Paradise, Mr. Pierce and other members of the club worked for two hours with a pulmotor before Dunn showed signs of recovery.

Mr. Dunn left his home as usual this morning apparently on his way to work.

Physicians say he will recover.

'GRACE COOLIDGE DAHLIA' GROWER, C. TITUS, DEAD

Marblehead, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Calvin Titus, who brought out a large white bloom that he called the "Grace Coolidge Dahlia," two years ago, died at his home here today. Mrs. Coolidge, wife of the President, was sent one of the first of the flowers developed by Mr. Titus and named in her honor.

PACIFIC FLIGHT HERO VISITS NAVY YARD

Lieutenant-Commander John Rodgers, hero of the trans-Pacific flight visited Commandant Andrews at the Charlestown Navy Yard yesterday. Earlier he was a guest of Commander Davis of the navigation Air Port.

Commander Rodgers was in command of the PN9, the naval plane which was towed about the Pacific for nine days before it was found by searchers. He had gone on record as being opposed to the battleship air force as advocated by Colonel William Mitchell.

His brief statements showed that he was more concerned with the safety of his plane than for his own rescue in the recent flight that came near being a disaster.

"On the flight across the Pacific the JN9 had two barometers, two fuel tanks sealed and all the rest of the conditions for establishing records correct."

WORRIED OVER "SHIP."

"Records were the only things and didn't worry me a bit. I was decidedly more interested in the safety of my 'ship.'" Commander Rodgers commented.

In regard to commercial aviation he said: "Henry Ford's splendid action entry into this field is the best thing that has happened to aviation since the Wrights flew a closed circle in 1904. Commercial flying abroad is receiving substantial support from the government."

QUEST OF CLASSMATES.

The people of this generation can have aviation just as soon as they are willing to dig down in their pockets for enough change to support it, otherwise it'll have to await the time when aviation for general development."

He was the guest of a dinner at the Boston Chamber of Commerce Monday, at the University Club.

LUFKIN URGES PAY RAISES

Collector Wilfred W. Lufkin took pains placed himself on record as favoring higher salaries for government employes and also a pension system, which will enable aged Federal employes to live properly.

He expressed those views at the Customs House while being sworn in as port collector for a second term.

Collector Lufkin's oath was administered by Judge James M. Morton.

"I sincerely hope," said the old Judge, "that the next Congress will amend the Federal retirement act, so as to pension our employes of the government, who, through old age or infirmities find it necessary to retire.

"I also hope Congress will see that a reclassification of the entire Federal service is brought about.

"And I hope that through this reclassification the salaries of government employes throughout the country will be raised to meet the cost of present living conditions."

Among those present at the ceremony were Congressman George Holden Tinkham, Judge Morton, ex-Congressman Augustus Gardner, United States Marshal William Keville, Appraiser Edmund W. Gould, solicitor Hornton Horsel, Comptroller Dwight Hall, Assistant United States Attorney Edward B. Hall, Benjamin F. Pitman, Collector of Internal Revenue Felt, secretary to Frank W. Stearns, Senator Moses' secretary, Senator P. H. Dawson, Edward Billings, former collector and Deputy Surveyor Moses Pitman.

ELECTION NEWS TO BE HEARD OVER WNAC

For tomorrow evening special arrangements have been made between Station WNAC, The Shepard Stores and the Boston Evening American to broadcast almost from the office of the Evening American the latest and most complete returns of the election. The first broadcast of the election comes at 6:45, shortly after the polls close, and it will be a general report of the early returns, probably regarding the state. Another at 7:30, the next at 8:30, with some of election returns, and at 9:30 WNAC will begin giving district returns.

BOSTON AMERICAN ORCHESTRA

The entertainment planned by Station WNAC for this important broadcast tomorrow night will be given by the Boston Evening American Orchestra, under the direction of William P. Gorge. This well known musical organization plays a delightful weekly concert. Whenever there are returns they will be given between selections.

BRIDGE BROADCAST.

A few minutes before 10 p. m. an up-to-the minute review will be given with a revised and accurate account of all that has been broadcast previous to this time. At 10 p. m. WNAC plans to broadcast radio election bulletins, which is creating quite a sensation throughout the country. Election scores will be given at 10:45 at the close of the dodge broadcast, and various dance orchestras well known to WNAC listeners will furnish entertainment from 10:45 until the time when the definite news of the election is known.

NEW YORK ELECTION.

WNAC and the Boston Evening American will not only broadcast the Boston returns, but the progress of the contest between Walker and Waterman in New York City will be given at intervals during the evening.

SHIP SWEPT BY FIRE OFF VIRGINIA COAST

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).— The Southern Steamship Company's freighter Algiers was burned, while off Norfolk, the Independent Wireless Telegraph Company reported today.

A message from the freighter Birmingham City, which went to the aid of the Algiers, said no sign of life was seen aboard the burning ship.

The last wireless from the Birmingham City, received early today, said it was cruising about in search of possible life boats with survivors. Relief was expressed by the Birmingham City's operator that the crew of the Algiers may have been picked up by another ship.

ARTIST HASKELL KILLED UNDER HIS OWN AUTO

Bath, Me., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Ernest Haskell, 49, an artist, was killed early today when his automobile overturned, near the Bowdoin farm, at Phippsburg, while returning from New York, where he had arranged for an exhibition of his paintings during the Winter.

His only companion was a 14 year-old boy whom he had picked up at York Beach and planned to give employment. The boy could not lift the car from Haskell, and ran a mile and a half to the Haskell home.

PROF. PECK, AMHERST, '86 AND GEOLOGIST, DEAD

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Professor Morris Peck, professor of chemistry and geology at Lafayette College, died today of heart trouble, it was said here. He was graduated from Amherst College in 1886. He was 60 and was danger list survivor.

NINTH BODY IS RECOVERED FROM S51

New London, Ct., Oct. 2 (A.P.).— Navy divers engaged in salvaging the S51 recovered another body from the engine room. This is the ninth body recovered in the S1 disaster.

It was identified as that of Henry Crowther, radio man of Arlington, Va.

The engine room of the S51 is being sealed up and when the task is completed the water will be blown from the motor room into the engine room and then pumped from the latter compartment.

When the water has been pumped out of all compartments the pontoons will be lowered and attached to the wreck and then the actual effort to lift the "sub" to the surface will be made.

BROOKLINE SALESMAN'S STOCK OFFERS BARRED

The public utilities commission today revoked the registration of Ira Jordan, of Brookline as a stock salesman. According to the commission Jordan failed to file complete information.

SAYS DAUGHTER WAS SHOWERED WITH MONEY

Letters purporting to show that Dr. J. Frank Bush, wealthy Andover physician, showered money gifts on the daughter who now contests his will, were read into testimony today in Salem Probate Court by Sherman Whipple.

Mrs. Ella Von Zendeltz of New York is the contesting daughter. The physician left most of his $100,000 estate to Miss Theoda Bush, physical instructor at Wellesley College.

Previous hearings in the case have revealed ardent letters from the physician to "Mabel," a waitress at an Andover inn, and to "Teddy" and several other women.

Today's events, written by Dr. Bush and read into testimony, were penned a year before his death, and spoke in affectionate terms of his grandchildren—the children of Mrs. Von Zendeltz.

The letters also referred to money he had sent her for her home rent in New York, and to send the children into the country for a vacation.

The case is expected to go to the jury Wednesday on the question of breaking the will.

You must say "QUICK QUAKER"

To get true Scotch flavor—famous Quaker Oats flavor—in quick cooking oats

THE difference in breakfast oats is flavor. Oats, originally a Scotch dish, must have Scotch flavor.

Quick Quaker has the toasty Scotch flavor that's so wonderful . . . famous Quaker Oats flavor.

No other brand has it. None successfully imitates it. It's due to exclusive Quaker milling of the finest, plumpest oats. Milling methods which took some 50 years to perfect.

Makes all the difference in the world. Quaker Oats spoils folks for ordinary brands of oats. Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. No kitchen muss busy mornings.

Due to Quaker milling methods, it supplies, too, the "roughage" you need to make laxatives seldom necessary.

Look for the picture of a Quaker on the oats you get.

MARTHA LEE GOES A-VISITING

I spent a most interesting afternoon this week visiting the interesting factory in Melrose where Miss Curtis' famous Marshmallow Creme is made. The home-like atmosphere of this establishment impresses you as soon as you reach the door, for instead of being a real factory, the Curtis Marshmallow plant is really a big private home with a roomy extension on the back. From the moment you cross the threshold you sense the feminine influence in this business, for the entire plant is sunny, home-like and so immaculately clean as to put some of our own kitchens to shame.

Scarcely a dozen years ago Miss Curtis commenced making her Marshmallow Creme in a 10x12 room in her home, with the help of a neighbor. Today this ideal dessert sauce, which won the highest award in the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, is found not only all over New England, but is equally popular in Chicago and New Orleans.

Only the purest and best—and incidentally the highest priced—ingredients go into the making of this delicious Marshmallow Creme and the fluffy marshmallows, and the success which Miss Curtis has met surely is positive proof of the old adage that whether you make mousetraps or marshmallows, so long as they are the best in their line, the world will beat a pathway to your door.

I brought back a large number of recipe books showing many new and interesting ways of using the Marshmallow Creme and know that you will want me to send you one. The book contains recipes for frostings, pudding sauces, desserts, frozen dishes, jellies and candy. Drop me a line for your copy, and if you aren't already acquainted with this pioneer among the marshmallow creams, let me urge you to get a package from your nearest grocer. It comes in two forms—"sauce," a fluffy cream for instant use, and a little heavier cream for general use and cooking purposes. You'll love the big, luscious Curtis Marshmallows, too.

Recipes for Parts of Today's Menu

FILIPINO ROLL

1¼ pounds ground round steak, 56c
½ pound ground fresh lean pork, 15c
1 green pepper, 5c
1½ teaspoonfuls salt, ½ teaspoonful pepper, 1 tbsp. Bell's Seasoning, 1c
1 small onion, 1c
1 cupful soft bread-crumbs, 1c
1 egg, 6c
3 thin slices bacon, 6c
2 cupfuls canned tomatoes, 12c
1 tsp. Vegex, 5c

Combine the ground steak, ground pork, onion and green pepper, chopped fine, bread crumbs, salt, pepper, Bell's seasoning and egg slightly beaten, and mix thoroughly. Form into a roll and place in a roasting pan. Lay the bacon over the top and pour the tomatoes over and around the roll. Bake in moderate oven for one and one-half hours, basting frequently with the tomatoes. Fifteen minutes before removing from the oven raise the slices of bacon so that they may become crisp and golden brown. Remove the roll to a hot platter and serve with a gravy made from the juices in the pan, thickened with 1 tbsp. flour mixed with 1 tbsp. water, add 1 tsp. Vegex and stir till smooth.

Total cost of recipe, $1.07. Cost per person, 28c. Serves 4.

APPLE CHARLOTTE

4 slices sponge cake, 16c
One cupful strained and sweetened apple sauce, 10c
2 heaping tbsp. Curtis Marshmallow Creme, 2c

Place the slices of sponge cake in individual serving dishes, add the Curtis creme to the strained and sweetened apple sauce and beat until light, pile a large tbsp. on each slice of sponge cake and serve with Curtis Marshmallow creme thinned. To do this put the desired amount of creme in a bowl and add ⅓ as much water, fruit juice, coffee or other liquid as you have creme, and have the liquid warm as possible. Blend carefully with a fork until the lumps disappear and the sauce is smooth. If you wish it thinner use more liquid, but use this proportion to start with.

Total cost of recipe, 28c. Cost per person, 7c. Serves 4.

A NEW WAY TO BUY CIDER

All of you who have bought cider time and time again, only to find that it was spoiled by dilution or adulteration or a strange musty taste, will be glad to know that good old-fashioned country cider can now be purchased, sealed tight in crystal glass jugs, just as sweet as the day it was pressed at the orchard.

No wind-falls go into this cider—only selected, tree-ripened apples. Golden Russets, Winesaps, Northern Spies, Baldwins and Spitzenbergs; known everywhere for their cool, zestful flavor. This selected fruit passes through streams of fresh running water and goes glistening and shining into presses as clean as a spotless kitchen.

The cider comes to you mellow and sweet with all the stored-up goodness of sunny orchards. It's just pure liquid apples, and you know what they say about an apple a day. Best of all, the cider is sealed in its pretty jug with a safety seal stopper that keeps it always at its best.

But—don't forget—fall cider in glass jugs is not this wonderful new cider that I am telling you about.

Drop me a line if you would like to know the name and where you can buy it—and also its astonishingly reasonable price. I know you'll want to have some on hand for Thanksgiving and will probably use up several jugs of it before then, once you introduce this cider king to your family.

NEW DRESSINGS FOR THE THANKSGIVING BIRD

From the first day of November until the last of the turkey soup is gone, most of our thoughts seem to center around the approaching holiday and the Thanksgiving dinner. It is pretty hard to improve on an old-fashioned New England Thanksgiving dinner, but it is possible to lend variety to your menu through the seasoning of the stuffing of your fowl or turkey.

Of course it isn't possible to improve on the old, reliable Bell Poultry Dressing that mother and grandmother and you and I have been using for more than we like to count. The perfect blend of herbs and spices that go into Bell's seasonings add richness and piquancy not only to poultry but to stuffings for roast lamb, roast pork or baked fish.

For the Thanksgiving bird, if you do not wish the standard New England stuffing, I'll gladly send you recipes for Rhode Island stuffing made with crackers, chopped giblets, stock and seasonings, or Danish stuffing from bread crumbs, Bell seasoning, melted butter, seeded raisins and walnut meats.

There is also delicious bread and celery stuffing, oyster stuffing, sausage dressing, potato dressing and chestnut dressing, besides the special dressings for duck and game. Bell's figures in them all. Which would you like me to send you? Why not decide now to give your Thanksgiving guests something new to praise this year? To me the dressing is the best part of the bird—especially if it is one of those new dressings that I will gladly tell you about.

AN EASY WAY TO STERILIZE YOUR WASHING

At this time of the year when grippe and colds seem so prevalent it is an excellent precaution to safeguard the health of your family by sterilizing the household laundry, and of course merely washing with ordinary laundry soap does not do this well.

Most of us know that the laundry CAN be sterilized by boiling, but this is a very messy process in our crowded, modern kitchens. So I am sure you will be interested to know that our good old friend "Duz," the wonderful oxygen soap powder, which I have told you about so often, will sterilize your household washing for you and destroy all chance germs through the rich "Duz" suds made of millions of bubbles, each filled with pure oxygen.

Some interesting tests have been made recently by the largest bacterial laboratory in the West which showed that "Duz" destroys germs in from one to two hours when used in your ordinary washing by simply soaking the clothes in warm water for a couple of hours or over night and with no boiling.

Of course, clothing used in a contagious sick-room should be sterilized by the instruction of your physician—if they are not burned—but this general sterilizing will protect your family and your children against the germs that live in ordinary soiled garments, handkerchiefs, underwear and soiled household linen; the "everyday germs" that may be picked up by the children when in school or at play, or by ourselves in public places, in street cars, trains, theatres, etc.

If you have never used "Duz" there is a treat in store for you, for it is a wonderful short cut to snowy washings as well as an effective germ destroyer. A line to me will bring you a sample without charge. "Duz" surely does all that is claimed for it—and then some. I've received several hundreds of club members who have revolutionized their laundry work with it, and I know it will be of equal help to you.

B. & M. TO RUN SPEEDY GAS COACHES

Road Orders $500,000 Latest Type Cars, for Use on Main Lines

The first of a B. & M. order for twelve motor rail cars and five auxiliary coaches, involving an expenditure of nearly $500,000, are in Boston and will be ready for operation shortly. Others will be delivered within the next two months.

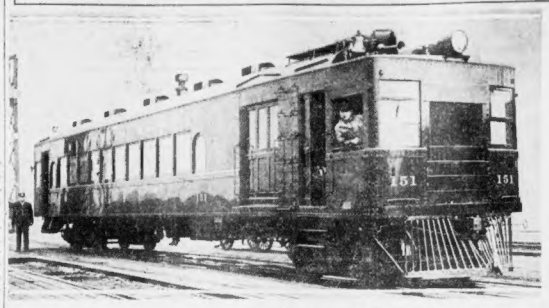
This order is the largest ever placed by an American railroad for equipment of this type, although several of these cars are now in use by many roads. With the gasoline-driven rail equipment which is now being operated, and auxiliary coaches which are available for this service, the Boston and Maine will have 23 such cars or coaches. In addition, a standard multi-passenger coach or baggage-smoker coach can be used with each of the gasoline-electric cars.

The new equipment is to operate in main line service supplementing steam trains to an extent which is said to represent an advance over present practice in the railroads of this country. Faster and more frequent schedules will be possible as a result.

This class of equipment is to be assigned to main line duty such as the Vermonter in Boston run, with local motor trains performing a feeder service supplementing express service by steam trains. Between Boston and Northampton one of the gasoline-electric cars will carry a combination mail and passenger coach; and between Concord, N. H., and White River Junction, Vt., there will be similar auxiliary coach accommodations in the gas-electric train.

Other tentative assignments of gasoline and gasoline-electric trains include Salem to Lowell, Lowell to Lawrence, Lowell to Lowell Junction, Worcester to Nashua, Plymouth, N. H., to Concord, N. H., Concord to Claremont, N. H., Rochester, N. H., to Portland, Plymouth to Lincoln, N. H., and one or two others in addition to the service now being maintained between Manchester and Ayer, Ayer and Greenville, and Northampton—one of the gasoline-electric cars will carry a Adams.

GOING TO FITCHBURG? TRY THIS



Latest type gas-motored car to be used on Boston & Maine on main line short runs. The road will soon have 23 in the service.

FAMILIES FLEE EVERETT FIRE

Fire of unknown origin in the attic of the two-family house at No. 71 Robin street, Everett, today caused much excitement and a loss of about $2,000.

A passerby noticed smoke coming from attic windows and notified the families of William Baker and J. J. Kelley, who live on the top and bottom floors respectively. The name whose name was not learned by the police then turned in an alarm and rushed back to assist the families out. Meanwhile, another passerby saw the smoke and he, too, sent in an alarm not knowing the apparatus had already been called.

During the excitement one of the spectators had an epileptic fit. He was treated at the scene of the fire and refused to give his name to the police.

BISHOP AND 14 PRIESTS FLEE ON ORDER TO WED

Mexico City, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Reports from the State of Tabasco say that Bishop Pascal Diaz and fourteen Catholic priests have fled from that State to escape the requirements of the decree the priests of all creeds must marry in order to exercise the duties of their office.

It is reported that the bishop and his fellow refugees are coming to Mexico City to protest to President Calles that the State of Tabasco's decree amounts to religious persecution.

Five priests in Tabasco already have been arrested because they refused to be married.

DR. M'GAULEY RECEIVES NEW THREAT LETTERS

Dr. Walter G. McGauley says he has received two letters threatening him with bodily injury and death unless he withdraws from the mayoralty contest. Last Friday, as an aftermath to a series of intimidating letters, two thugs, hiding in the shadows of the garage in the rear of his Jamaicaway home, fired three shots at him as he alighted from his automobile. None of the bullets took effect. The two letters received today were turned over to police of Station 13, Jamaica Plain.

NEW TRIAL SOUGHT FOR WAYLAND EX-COLLECTOR

A motion for a new trial in the case of Lester E. Gerald, ex-collector of taxes of the town of Wayland, and present chairman of the board of selectmen of that town, was heard before Judge Flynn in the Superior Court at East Cambridge today. Gerald was found guilty of larceny of $60,000 from the town of Wayland, over a period beginning in 1902.

BOY NEARLY DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE BABY

Worcester, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—While attempting to save his baby brother Bernard from drowning at University Pond this noon, Joseph Gengel, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gengel, was nearly drowned himself. The two youngsters were rescued by men who were painting a house nearby.

McCarl Called Autocrat; Power is Clipped

Washington, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Comptroller-General J. McCarl received a sharp arraignment today in a decision by Justice Robb, of the District Court of Appeals, dealing with the holding up of pay of naval officers to reimburse the government for disputed items of overpayment to their dependents.

"There cannot be such an autocrat," the court held. "No such power has been conferred by Congress upon any official and it is entirely inconsistent with our theory of government."

The opinion was rendered in the case of Lieutenant-Commander John F. Cox and affirmed the decision of the lower courts. It held that it would require a very specific provision to convince the court that Congress intended to clothe an accounting officer with power to hold up navy officers' pay.

WARM, SHOWERS FOR TOMORROW

An overcast sky accompanied by frequent showers is the forecast for the voters tomorrow. Milder temperature, however, is promised. The cold wave has vanished. Even the northwest, which last week broke all existing records for cold at this season, is now enjoying unusually warm weather.

Although rain is announced for tomorrow it is not expected that it will prove heavy enough to affect the voting and weather experts think it possible that nothing more than a heavy sky will mar the day.

Motorman Killed in Crash

Granite City, Ills., Nov. 2 (U.S.).—H. Roeder, a motorman, was killed and more than a dozen passengers were injured near Nameokt, when two interurban cars met head-on in a fog today.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic Coughs and Persistent Colds Lead to Serious Trouble. You Can Stop them now With Creomulsion, an Emulsified Creosote That Is Pleasant to Take

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga.

Be Better Looking — Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

HUSBAND AND WIFE-TO-BE ORDAINED

Bride's Father and Her Two Brothers, All Ministers, Will Officiate at Ceremony

Brookfield, Nov. 2.—Husband and wife will be ordained ministers of the Congregational church tomorrow when the minister-father of the wife and two minister-brothers officiate at one of the most novel ceremonies in church history.

Mrs. E. Jerome Johanson, formerly Laura Lane of West Hartford, Ct., met her husband at the Hartford Seminary Foundation in Hartford and was married to him on September 1, while both were students.

The husband will be installed tomorrow as pastor of the Brookfield Congregational church.

Officiating at the double ordination will be Mrs. Johanson's father, the Rev. Charles Stoddard Lane of West Hartford, and assisting will be her two brothers, the Rev. Stoddard Lane and the Rev. G. Homer Lane.

Present at the unique ceremony will be representatives of twenty Congregational churches in the section.

Just before the ceremony, the Rev. Mr. Johanson and his minister-to-be-bride will be examined by the Congregational Council on which also her father and brothers and three other ministers.

The Rev. Alexander C. Purdy, professor in the Hartford Seminary Foundation, will offer the ordination prayer.

CONTRACTOR GONE ONE YEAR; CAN'T BE FOUND

Police have been asked to attempt to unravel the tangled skein of circumstances that now surround the disappearance a year ago of Carmine Uva, prosperous Hull contractor.

Michael Taurasi, a cousin of Uva's, today told the police he feared the missing man had met with foul play. He said his cousin had become prosperous as a contractor and was known to have hurried large deposits in a Hingham bank. He said Uva was rooming in Wayland, but suddenly disappeared. It was at first thought he had suddenly decided to return to relatives in Italy, but word from there states that nothing has been heard from him since about six weeks before his disappearance.

DONOGHUE USES PLANE IN COUNCIL CONTEST

City Councillor John A. Donoghue, candidate for the school committee, today adopted a novel method of circulating his campaign literature when an airplane, flying over the city, released thousands of handbills in his interest. The plane, with George Reynolds as pilot, left the Dorchester Yacht Club shortly after noon. After circling Dorchester Bay and covering the residential sections of Dorchester, the plane headed for the city proper. It attracted great attention throughout Dorchester and in the South End, which Mr. Donoghue represents in the City Council. Later it flew over the noonday crowds on Boston Common. Hundreds of campaign circulars were dropped on these spectators.

The Scarlet Pimpernel and Rosemary

by Baroness Orczy

A Story of Love and Mystery That Bares the Heart of the Chief Plotter

PETER BLAKENEY, a carefree young man, is in love with Rosemary Fowkes, but he forgets to propose, and Jasper Tarkington wins her. Rosemary, a writer, is induced to go to Transylvania and arrange a series of articles intended to clear the air of much international unpleasantness. Instantly she finds herself in the midst of a group of plotters. Even her best friends are arrested as spies, and though her husband is a great help, he always seems to fail in his efforts. So Rosemary decides to watch and wait.

Football Changes

By Nick Flatley

Nick Flatley

YET another sign of the decadence of American [illegible] pen football game between [illegible] big professional game with the Frankford Yellow Jackets at Braves Field on Saturday.

THE desertion of dear old Antioch from the football ranks will not affect the game in the least. We doubt if it will even affect the attendance for Harvard's two games. But it will mean a lot to the players who draw real enjoyment from things like that.

Who knows if what dear old Antioch is doing is not the beginning of a big revolt against football as we know it? Students are tired of having to spend half or more of their time preparing for football games. Other colleges may follow Antioch's example. Then football will be relegated to its proper place in the sports world.

Football is a big thing. The Antioch cheer leaders in fact adopt a yell something like this:

We go through college
Without a peek
For we don't play football,
At Antioch.

While we are on the subject, it might be mentioned that the boys don't play football at several other colleges. But they haven't called a strike up yet.

JACQUES FOURNIER, the melancholy Frenchman who was prepared to quit baseball because the hard ball he had to field hurt his hands, has been [illegible] Antioch football coach. Fournier will have to use his head instead of his hands. It looks as if Antioch will have a [illegible] team. Fournier is going to [illegible] Antioch football [illegible] Fournier will [illegible] Antioch football [illegible] Fournier will [illegible] Antioch football [illegible] Fournier will

FOXY GRANDPA'S BEDTIME STORY

BUNNY COULDN'T DO IT.

By Foxy Grandpa

"FOXY GRANDPA," whispered Bobby, "have you noticed how many of the ladies here have black teeth?"

"Yes," I answered, "look at that one." For at that moment we passed a beautiful young Javanese—for we were on the island of Java—just as pretty a young girl as you would want to see. But she had black teeth.

"Maybe they don't clean their teeth and they have decayed," murmured Bobby. "You know you said if I didn't clean mine night and morning they would. I guess I'll stop myself at home after every meal like you do, too. I'd hate to have to."

"They think that is beautiful," I chuckled.

"Beautiful!" exclaimed Bobby in surprise.

"Yes," I exclaimed, "They color them black on purpose."

"How? Do they have huckleberry pie here?" asked Bobby very severely.

"They chew betel-nut," I explained. "That darkens the teeth as you see them."

Bobby shook his little head and smiled.

"Let's stop in here and have an ice," I suggested, leading the way into a little restaurant.

We sat down at a small table and gave our order and while we were waiting Bobby glanced down on the floor and there going between my feet was a pretty little lizard.

"Wasn't he a cute little fellow!" exclaimed Bobby.

"I'd like to have a look at him," I said.

"Give me your handkerchief, Foxy Grandpa, and perhaps I can catch him," suggested Bobby getting down on his knees and poking his curly head under the table. "There he is!"

In a moment the little lizard wiggled his tail and darted out right in front of Bobby.

Bobby quickly recovered the lizard with the handkerchief and then shouted:

"I've got him! Come over here and look at him, Foxy Grandpa."

I got up from the table and went over to Bobby. Bunny was at my side, of course. I leaned down as Bobby carefully lifted one corner of the handkerchief for me to examine his prize.

Little by little he lifted the corner. First the very tip of the lizard's tail appeared. Away he pulled the handkerchief to show me the rest of him.

How carefully he lifted that handkerchief. More tail and more tail —but imagine our surprise when where the body of the lizard should appear we saw nothing!

"He's escaped and left his tail behind him and I never saw him!" cried Bobby in disgust.

"I've heard of lizards who can break off their tails when they are in danger, and then grow a new one," I explained. "What a wonderful provision of nature."

"Would be a great thing if my family could do that," said Bunny, diving his own little powderpuff of a tail an emphatic perk.

DR. REED'S SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D. Former President of the American Medical Association.

WHEN you work or exercise you expend energy and the expenditure of energy tends to fatigue.

When exercise stops short of conscious fatigue it is wholesome and promotive of vitality. When it produces conscious fatigue it is making an overdraft on your vitality.

The expenditure of energy is now susceptible of accurate measurements by methods that have been employed in practically all of the athletic sports.

This question in all of its practical bearings was recently discussed by Professor A. V. Hill before the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

He emphasized the fact that in the study of muscular exercise there is a vast store of accurate information, hitherto almost unexploited, in the records of athletic sports and racing.

The greatest efforts and the most intense care have been expended in making what are really experiments upon these subjects, and the results obtained represent what may justly be described as a collection of natural constants of muscular effort in the human race.

This is illustrated, Professor Hill points out, in the fact that an important and interesting problem for any young athlete is presented by the question, "how fast can I run some given distance?"

The maximum speed at which a given distance can be covered is known to vary largely with the distance.

What are the factors determining the variation of speed with distance?

How far, knowing a man's best times at two distances, can one interpolate between them for an intermediate distance or extrapolate for a distance greater or less?

The answer to these questions is to be found in what is called the fatigue index of each individual.

Fatigue, however, is a very indefinite and inexact expression. It is necessary to define it in terms of quantity before we can employ it as a guide for human exercise. There are many varieties of fatigue, but of these only a few concern us now.

There is the fatigue which results in a short time from extremely violent effort. There is the fatigue which may be called exhaustion, which overcomes the body when an effort of more moderate intensity is continued for a long time.

Both of these may be defined as muscular.

Then there is the fatigue which we may describe as due to wear-and-tear of the body as a whole, to blisters, soreness, stiffness, nervous exhaustion, metabolic changes and disturbances, sleeplessness, and similar factors, which may effect an individual long before his muscular system has given out.

Of these three forms of fatigue the first one only is as yet susceptible of exact measurement and description.

The second type may quite possibly come within the range of experiment at no distant date.

The third type is still so indefinite and complex that one can not hope at present to define it accurately and to measure it.

Undoubtedly, however, all these types of what we call "fatigue" influences—indeed, determine—the results which are to be presented.

It is quite possible for you to go to a competent physical director of a modern up-to-date gymnasium and have your fatigue index determined.

This is important, even more important for the middle aged or elderly would-be athlete, than for the aspiring young candidate for the Marathon. The presumption of high endurance and consequently low fatigue index, as well as recuperative power, is all on his side.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE ancient world had its perfumes—myrrh, frankincense and musk—sweet phantoms of once love ly blooms to drift through golden dusk. Few know when first the rose's breath was captured for some maid; when, after many a petal's death, the precious attar stayed. But, through time's long, slow-moving train, fresh sweetness was distilled, scents fragrant as the April rain on snowy plum-blooms spilled. Scents fresh as any wind of dawn and faint as stars through mist, have lingered through dim ages gone to keep this hour's tryst. A hint of myrrh can bring once more strange scenes from days long fled, a vanished race, a distant shore; men, gods who now are dead. And, as the human longing clings to breath of dried flowers, it finds the bloom of other Springs in sweets of long dead hours.

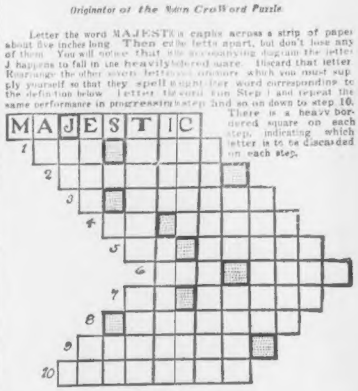
Letter the word MAJESTIC caphs across a strip of paper about five inches long. Then cube letts apart, but don't lose any of them. You will notice that the accompanying diagram the letter J happens to fall in one heavily-bordered square. Discard that letter. Rearrange the other seven letters in any order which you might supply yourself so that they spell another four word corresponding to the definition below. Letter the word run Step 1 and repeat the same performance in progressive steps and so on down to step 10.

There is a heavy bordered square on each step, indicating which letter is to be discarded on each step.



DEFINITIONS.

FINANCE

By B. C. FORBES

Stock prices have again soared to the highest peak in history. But corn and cotton are down. Gold is flowing into this country, but loans on stocks and bonds show a sharp increase.

Wall Street speculation in various stocks clearly is outrunning the betterment in business. But the question is whether Wall Street is right or wrong in its reading of the general outlook.

I have just spent several days with the heads of our most influential international banking houses—our largest national banks, our leading trust companies, promine.t stock exchange firms and a few businesses leaders.

How do they feel?

Briefly, that speculation has become unwholesome and dangerous in a number of grossly manipulated stocks, but that other group of stocks, including good rail, oil and copper issues, are still on a sound basis.

* * *

The practically unanimous expectation is that business will continue good during the balance of this year and into next year.

Looking ahead, apprehension is expressed last Wall Street go so far as to invite trouble. Also, the fear is expressed that the boom in real estate may by and by reach the bursting-point.

* * *

"If we keep our heads, we should enjoy a long period of active industry, good business, profitable farm operations and virtually full-time employment at good wages."

That is the gist of the sentiment prevailing in high places.

ME. CENTRAL'S POSITION IS IMPROVED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Recently the writer heard President James H. Hustis of the Boston & Maine remark: "New England isn't going to the bow-wows!" The remark was brought to mind rather forcibly when President McDonald's well-managed Maine Central emphasized its "comeback" by declaring, in addition to the regular dividend, a dividend of $1.25 a share on preferred stock on account of accumulated dividends. The payment, to be made Dec. 1, will reduce accumulated dividends on Maine Central preferred to $15 a share.

I heard Traffic Manager George H. Eaton of the Maine Central declare that the Boston & Maine Car Plaza that President McDonald intended to have the railroad give adequate and dependent service that should "set the pace" for service must be bettered to meet growing needs as they arise.

* * *

It is a good sign when railroad and other executives seek improvement rather than sitting complacently at their desks and remaining entirely satisfied with the existing order of things.

Remember the Children

A Warning to Boston Voters

So great has been the interest aroused by the unusual conditions which have arisen in the mayoralty contest that another vital issue to be decided at the polls on Tuesday may well have been overshadowed in the minds of many of the voters.

By the provisions of the new city charter an entirely new School Committee, not the usual two new members, must be chosen by the citizens of Boston. To this body we shall entrust, not only the expenditure of vast sums of public money, not only the management of the great physical plant, but also our most precious possession, our children.

On the faithful performance of the duties which fall to this body will depend the welfare, the future of our children, the citizens of tomorrow, the hope of the city.

If we err in the choice of a Mayor or of a City Council, we doubtless shall pay the bill and we may perhaps at a later day undo the damage wrought, but if we err in the choice of our School Committee, not we, but our children will pay for our fault. They will pay in lost opportunties, in thwarted ambitions, and the damage will never be repaired.

For this high office many have offered themselves as candidates. How shall we judge between them? There can be only one standard of measurement. No citizen worthy of his great privilege, dare be influenced in this issue by party affiliation, by personal friendship. He can entrust the welfare of his children only to those who are seeking the office as an opportunity for service to the boys and girls of Boston with the hope of no reward except the approval of his fellow citizens and of his own conscience.

With deepest regret all good citizens have accepted the decision of Miss Frances Curtis and of Dr. David D. Scannell not to continue as members of the Committee. Their service is, however, by no means at an end. In their long years of membership they have set a standard of service by which we can measure the candidates of today and tomorrow.

Does the candidate in character, in previous experience warrant the hope that he will measure up to this standard set up by these and similar friends of the children?

If he does he is worthy of our support. If he fails in any particular, a vote for him will be treason to our own dearest interests.

Remember the children, voters of Boston, when you go to the polls tomorrow. They look to you to save the Boston Public Schools from the contaminating clutches of sordid politicians.

Watch Telephone Company

New Hampshire Subscribers May Be Treated to Same Raise Inflicted on Bay State

Telephone subscribers in New Hampshire would do well to follow and digest the testimony that is being offered before the Public Service Commission of that State relative to the petition of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for an increase in rates.

Adopting the same method of procedure which ultimately resulted in an increase of $8,500,000 in rates to subscribers in Massachusetts, the telephone interests expect to get a similar increase from New Hampshire subscribers.

Public opinion in Massachusetts—almost to a man—was against the increase in rates. And the failure to show that feeling during the rate hearing had much to do with the decision of the Public Utilities in Massachusetts.

New Hampshire subscribers are today in the position that Massachusetts subscribers were before the increase was granted, but with the advantage of knowing that the display of interest in the case will have considerable bearing on the decision of the Public Service Commission of their own State.

Rejoice With Hotels

Their Good Business Is Everybody's Good Business

Reports of increasing business in Boston hotels should be gratifying to every resident of the city. Hotels are barometers of prosperity. And hotel money goes directly into home-town circulation.

Extraordinary occasions, such as the coming Harvard-Yale football game, or a big convention, exert too great a strain upon the present accommodations of the city. Already one hotel has been fully booked for the gridiron classic, and others are rapidly nearing their limits of reservations.

The building of the new Statler Hotel and the new Parker House was opportunely planned. Their completion will relieve the strain upon the present accommodations of the city. They in turn will attract more visitors, and in sequence the necessity of more hotels of their high class will arise.

Now that New England is so prominently before the eyes of the nation as both a Winter and a Summer playground, every possible encouragement should be given investment in more hotels.

Lock Your Cars

Don't Tempt Auto Thieves Too Far

Each day the newspapers carry stories showing an alarming increase in the thefts of automobiles.

Since the first of October more than 500 cars have been taken from the streets in Greater Boston and the police are powerless.

Probably 80 per cent. of these losses could be avoided if the drivers of automobiles exercised ordinary care in leaving them locked.

Three out of every five autoists step out of their cars, carelessly leave them unlocked, and go about their business.

A stroll about the downtown streets any business day will reveal any number of closed cars, parked at the curb, with windows open and keys frequently left in switches.

Lock your cars.

WHEN a strange traffic cop goes "tweet-tweet-tweet" after you and then remarks:

"Hey, you, where dja think ya goin'?"

Do you often wonder what to tell him?

It's no wonder if you do.

In Boston traffic signs and rules have been pretty well standardized, though there are occasional individualists among the traffic policemen.

In almost every community outside of this city, however, the codes differ amazingly. What is right one place leads to disaster or court in another. And ignorance of the law is no excuse.

There is sore need for a traffic conference among representatives of the communities around Boston, and from further afield.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THE Middle West has had so many wind storms lately that people who have never been out of Chicago in their lives are now being blown all over the country.

ONE man strolled out in his back yard and fifteen minutes later he was in Ohio.

HE was sore because the wind was blowing the wrong way, he wanted to go to Kansas City.

THE breeze was so strong that it blew three women right out of his arms.

HE lost five girls before he had sense enough to nail them to the sidewalk.

HE tried to save one dame by handcuffing her to a letter box. The wind didn't carry her away but the postman did.

WHENEVER there's a cyclone he always stands out in the street with his arms open waiting for a few women to blow into them.

THIS is the way he caught the girl he married and now he blames his troubles on the weather bureau.

IF he had kept his arms shut he'd been better off.

HE thought she was an angel because he saw her drifting around in the air.

HE should have known that angels don't wear short skirts and roll their stockings.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA never has any storms because the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce won't stand for them. They might blow some of their tourists to San Francisco.

IT'S the wind that brings most of the tourists to Los Angeles but it's a different kind of wind.

THERE'S never any jealousy in the Middle West. If a cyclone blows three hundred people out of Ohio today a tornado will come tomorrow and blow them back.

KANSAS is proud of its hurricanes. It gives her poor people a chance to travel for nothing.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

—By MARCELINE D'ALROY—

ON "THRILLS AND CHILLS IN FURS"

A woman's FUR COAT
To a MAN is merely
A FUR COAT
Until, of course,
He has to PAY for it;
THEN he sees fur
Through DIFFERENT eyes;
As SOMETHING to keep
A WOMAN QUIET,
To keep her WARM,
Or just to KEEP HER
Contentedly HIS.
But to A GIRL, a first
Fur coat is often
A BIGGER THRILL than
A BEAU, for one can
ALWAYS get a beau
MANY women seem to treat
Their WRAPS LOVINGLY and NEGLECT THE MAN:
Yes, many a woman GETTING
Into a new wrap will FIRST
SNUGGLE INTO IT, then
PULL IT AROUND her,
HUG HERSELF with Delight and FINALLY
GO OUT and DISPLAY it
Before the world with GREAT PRIDE,
And to the POOR
HUSBAND who BOUGHT it
She will probably say:
"Come on. Let's go!"

Old Salts Made Happy

To the Friend of the People:

I would like to use your column to call attention to work being done in this city in behalf of sailors.

The other day I went over to St. Mary's Home for Sailors, East Boston.

There you will find many old salts who can tell you yarns galore about things they have come in contact with all over the world.

Over 600 visited this East Boston home during a month. They are so jolly and commanding with their old pipes in their mouths that they are the best chasers for the blues. Boston ought to be proud of these places.

In a Faint or Drunk

To the Friend of the People:

Do any of the policemen in Boston know whether a woman has fainted or is intoxicated?

I saw at Somerset and Beacon streets the other day a woman who had fainted. Part of her body was on the curb and part in the street. No one seemed interested sufficiently to place her tenderly on the sidewalk.

She was carried off in the patrol wagon. She should have been taken in the hospital ambulance.

This proves again that we need more policewomen to look after their sex.

MRS. THOMAS R. TIMPSON,

Careful, Ladies!

To the Friend of the People:

Use your head in Boston streets. The traffic cops cannot use your head for you. This applies to a great many women in the shopping district. I stood on the corner on Washington street and Temple Place watching the crowds crossing.

I want to be just to the women, but they do not use their heads.

They dodge. They disobey signals. They rush like fowl before an automobile and daily escape accidents.

I saw a woman right at that crossing come near death, because she was not looking, but went ahead until she became frightened and then someone on the sidewalk came to her rescue.

Use your head in Boston shopping district.

Deport Alien Prisoners

To the Friend of the People:

So many undesirable aliens are among the 890,000 prisoners confined in this country, that it is about time that we deported all aliens of this type.

This would save much expense. It would also be a lesson to others of this class over the big pond who are thinking of coming over to this El Dorado.

In the first place, segregate these alien prisoners and make them start for their own country.

Home Supreme

To the Friend of the People:

The importance of home cannot be over estimated these days. The home stands supreme as an agency to build character, mould sentiment, and promote human welfare.

I would suggest that citizens initiate a home movement. I believe that the hope of America lies in the home and its influences. All the forces that center in the home should be used for the common good. The purpose of such a movement is to establish justice in all human relations.

This means that love must be the directing influence.

THINGS YOU CAN LIVE WITHOUT

By DR. FRANK CRANE

RUSKIN once said people could live without pictures, but they could not live so well.

There are many things in life without which people can live, but not so well.

Man is a creature of infinite want, but of remarkably few needs.

The machinery of his life is immensely complicated, but surprisingly little keeps it running.

The animal needs that keep life in his body are soon met.

But it is in the margin beyond these that all that makes man a higher being takes place.

The beauty of music is one of the things you can live without. Life goes on even if the soul is never touched by the tenderness of song. Life goes on, but it does not go on the same. Something irreplaceable is lost.

Travel broadens and enlarges a man's life, but it is not necessary to it. The writer once talked to an old woman in the Kentucky mountains. She had lived in the same spot for over sixty years and had been only twice to a town five miles away across a river.

Education is one of the things you can live without. A man may never have read a sentence in his life and yet may live longer than one who is widely read. He may live longer, but not so well!

Fine, worthwhile literature, the real food of the soul, can be entirely neglected. You can live all your life and never hear the name of Shakespeare. All the richness of the great minds of the past, the real legacy of older days, may never be heard of, but life goes on.

Man can exist without religion. His body goes on living even though his soul is never awakened.

The love and appreciation of flowers, of birds, of the wide, clean beauty of nature, can be entirely left out of his life, and still it continues.

One of the chief evils of poverty is that it means that "the things you can live without" often have to be discarded for the bare necessities.

Like those born blind who cannot conceive of color or those born deaf who cannot imagine sound, those who never experience "the things you can live without" rarely miss them.

They live on without them. But they do not live so well.

WOULD CANCER FIGHT DIABETES?

By Garrett P. Serviss

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE statement is often repeated that cancer is "a disease of civilization." But only scattered guesses have been made as to the precise manner in which civilized living affects the development and spread of that dreadful disease—if it be true that any real influence of the kind exists.

It would seem to be of the highest importance to have this question settled. If so-called civilized foods, or civilized ways of living, are responsible for the increasing ravages of cancer, there should certainly be a way in which the guilty elements can be detected and run down.

More Important

This would be even more important than the discovery of a supposed cancer germ. After a disease germ has been found, the necessity still remains for the discovery of methods and means for its destruction without harm to the patient.

But if the conditions in which, or the materials upon which, a disease fiendishness are unmistakably disclosed, it can be combatted most effectually by simply eliminating those conditions or those materials. That is the plan by which the malarial mosquito has been conquered.

These thoughts are awakened by the report that a Russo-German physician, Dr. A. Braunstein, has discovered an "antagonism" between cancer and diabetes, while researches in Germany have shown that cancer cells have an extraordinary hunger for sugar.

Now, there can be no question but that one of the most characteristic features of civilized diet is the abundance of sugar consumed. But one of the German investigators is credited with the astonishing observation that one type of cancerous tissue is able to consume its own dry weight of sugar in thirteen hours.

Three confirmatory facts are presented by Dr. Braunstein: (1) If diabetic patient is attacked by cancer the dangerous concentration of sugar in his blood and other fluids falls off; (2) the same patient, after the cancer appears, becomes more tolerant toward food containing sugar and starch; (3) in case the cancer is removed by surgery the sugar content in the blood and other fluids rises again.

Fight Each Other

Many a theory, even many a sound theory, has been based upon facts of observation no more plausible and no more confirmatory than these. The results attested by Dr. Braunstein should be re-examined by other physicians.

The three facts observed by him are all of such a simple nature that almost any skilled and experienced practioner should be able to either confirm or contradict them by careful observation in the field of his own practice.

Assuming the correctness of Dr. Braunstein's conclusions, it has been suggested that the alleged antagonism between cancer and diabetes may be utilized, like that recently announced between malaria and parasits, by setting one disease to fight the other through inoculation.

Making nature's quarrels our own, though only for our own advantage, is a typical feature of modern life. We pit diseases against diseases as we set insect hordes to fight other insect hordes.

The results are often decisive and of the highest possible value, from our point of view. We do not feel compelled to entertain conscientious scruples with regard to lower forms of life which are inimical to us, and so, while we deplore war among human races as the most indefensible of evils and crimes, we freely stimulate and encourage it for our benefit among organisms of a less exalted type.

STOP DILLY-DALLYING AND STAND YOUR OWN GROUND

You know what you ought to do and you want to do what you ought to do, but you are letting certain persons "whip you around the post" as the saying goes.

You are afraid to come out flat-footed and take a square stand.

So you dilly-dally and bend this way and that in your effort to stand on both sides of the fence.

You are being pressed into false positions all the time because you will not frankly state your mind and intentions.

You cannot accomplish what you should if you are in such an uncertain state all the time.

You are so silly and weak-minded that you even wonder how long you can hold out against the ones who are trying to up-root your plans.

And while you wonder you are giving the other fellow a chance to edge under you deeper and deeper.

Have the stamina to put over your conviction.

It is always true of the one who tries to "crowd" you that he or she is cowardly and could be routed if you would stand your ground instantly r your swift fearlessness you can save yourself these "Ricks in the back" of which you complain.
